By Telegraph to The Times WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 .- (By the As ociated Press.) The following message was sent to Congress today: to the Senate and House of Representatives.

In my recent annual message to Con ress I briefly referred to our relaions with Hawaii, and expressed the ntention of transmitting further information on the subject when additional advices permitted. Though I am not able to now report a definite change in the actual situation, I am convinced that the difficulties lately created both here and in Hawaii, and now standing in the way of a solution, through executive action, of the prob lem presented, render it proper and expedient that the matter should be re-This elegant and popular theater will referred to the broader authority and open for the season of popular contents on CHRISTMAS DAY, Every evening, Sundays (xcepted, Gala Christmas matinee, Regular matinee's Wednesdays and Saturdays. discretion of Congress, with a full explanation of the endeavor thus far made to deal with the emergency, and statement of the considerations which and Grover's Comedians In Leonard Grover's world famous com-edies in newest dress, have governed my actions.

their public servants. When the present administration entered upon its duties, the Senate had under consideration a treaty providing for the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands to the territory of the United States. Surely, under our Constitution and laws, the enlargement of our limits is a manifestation of the highest attribute sovereignty, and, if entered upon as an executive act, all things relating to the transactions should be clean and free from suspicion. Additional importance is attached to this peculiar treaty of annexation, because it contemplated a departure from un-broken American tradition in providing for the addition to our territory of islands of the sea more than two thousand miles removed from our nearest coast. These considerations might not of themselves call for interference with the completion of the treaty entered upon by the previous administration, but it appeared from documents accompanying the treaty when submitted to the Senate, that the ownership of Hawaii was tendered us by the provisional government, set up to succeed the con-stitutional ruler of the islands who had been dethroned, and it did not appear such provisional government had the LAPIES' STRAW AND FELT HATS ceaned, dyed, reshaped and trimmed. THURSTON'S, 264 S. Main st., opp. Third. sanction of either a popular revolution or suffrage HE WOULD TAKE TIME.

transaction naturally attracted atten-tion. One was the extraordinary haste, not to say precipitancy, characterizing all transactions connected with the treaty. It appeared as if the so-called Committee of Safety, ostensibly the source of revolt against the consti-tutional government of Hawaii, was organized on Saturday, the 14th day of January; that on Monday, the 16th, the United States forces were landed at Honolulu from a naval vessel lying in its harbor; that on the 17th the scheme of a provisional government was perfected, and a proclamation naming its officers was on the same day prepared, whereupon the United States Minister recognized the provisional government thus created; provisional government thus created; that two days afterward, on the 19th day of January, commissioners repre-senting such government sailed for this country in a steamer especially chartered for the occasion, arriving in San Francisco on the 28th day of Janof February; that the next day they had their first interview with the Secretary of State and another on the 11th, when the treaty annexing the islands was practically agreed upon, and that on the 14th it was formally concluded, and on the 15th transmitted to the Senate. Thus between the initiation of the scheme for a provisional governm in Hawaii on the 14th day of Jan-uary, and the submission to the Sen-ate of the treaty of annexation, concluded with such government, the en-tire interval was thirty-two days, fif-teen of which were spent by the Ha-wailan commissioners in their journey to Washington.

Two other remarkable features of the

In the next place, upon the face of the paper submitted with the treaty, it clearly appeared that there was open and undetermined an issue of fact of the most vital importance. The message of the President accompanying the treaty declared that the overthrow of the monarchy was not in any way of the monarchy was not in any way promoted by this government, and in a letter to the President from the Secretary of State, also submitted to the Senate with the treaty, the following passage occurred: "At the time the provisional government took possession of the government buildings, no troops or officers of the United States were present or took any part whatever in or officers of the United States were present or took any part whatever in the proceedings. No public recognition was accorded to the provisional government by the United States Minister until after the Queen's abdication, and when they were in effective possession of the government buildings, archives, treasury, barracks, police station, and all potential machinery of the government."

WHAT HE CONCEIVED. WHAT HE CONCEIVED.

But a protest also accompanied the said treaty, signed by the Queen and her Ministers at the time she made way for the provisional government which explicitly stated that she yielded to the superior force of the United States, whose Minister had caused the United States troops to be landed at Honolulu, and had declared that he would support such provisional govern-ment. The truth or falsity of this protest was surely of the first importance. If true, nothing but the concealment of its truth could induce our governof its truth could induce our government to negotiate with the semblance of government thus created, nor could a treaty resulting from the acts stated in the protest have been knowingly deemed worthy of consideration by the Senate. Yet the truth or falsity of the protest had not been investigated. I conceived it to be my duty, therefore, to withdraw the treaty from the Senate for examination, and meanwhile. Senate for examination, and, meanwhile to cause an accurate, full and impar-tial investigation to be made of the facts attending the subversion of the constitutional government of Hawaii, and the installment, in its place, of a provisional government.

I selected for the work of investiga tion Hon. James H. Blount of Geor-gia, whose service of eighteen years as a member of the House of Representatives, and whose experience as chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs in that body, and his consequent familiarity with international topics, joined with his high character and honorable reputation, seemed to ren der him peculiarly fitted for the du-ties intrusted to him. His report, de-tailing his action, under the instructions given him, and the conclusion derived from his investigation, accom-pany this message. These conclusions do not rest for the accordance en-tirely upon Blount's honesty and ability as a man, nor upon his acumen and impartiality as an investi-gator. They are accompanied by the evidence upon which they are based which evidence is also herewith trans mitted, and from which, it seems to me, no other deductions could possi-bly be reached than those arrived at by the Commissioner.

The report, with its accompanying proofs and such other evidence as is now before Congress or is herewith substituted, justifies, in my opinion, the statement that when the President was led to submit the treaty to the Senate with the declaration that the 'overthrow of the monarchy was not in any way prompted by this govern-ment," and when the Senate was in-duced to receive and discuss it on that basis, both the President and the Sen-

AS A PERSUADER. An atte communication to touch upon all facts which throw light upon the progress and consummation of this scheme of annexation. A very brief and imper fect reference to the facts and evidence at hand will exhibit its character and the incidents in which it had its birth. It is unnecessary to set forth the reasons which, in January, 1893, led a considerable portion of the American and other foreign merchants and traders residing at Honolulu to favor annexation of Hawaii to the United States. It is sufficient to note the fact and observe that the project was one zeal-ously promoted by the Minister representing the United States in that counsenting the United States in that country. He evidently had an ardent desire that it should become a fact accomplished by his agency and during his ministry, and was not inconveniently scrupulous as to the means employed to that end. On the 19th day of November 1892 nearly, two months of November, 1892, nearly two months before the first overt act tending toward the subversion of the Hawaiian government and the attempted transfer of the Hawaiian territory to the United States, he addressed a long let-ter to the Secretary of State, in which the case for annexation was elaborately argued on moral, political and economical grounds. He refers to the loss to the Hawalian sugar interests from the operation of the McKinley bill, and the tendency to still further depreciate sugar property unless some positive measure of relief is granted. He strongly inveighs against the existing Hawaiian government, and emphatically declares for annexation.

He says: "In truth, the monarchy here is an absurd anachronism. It has nothing on which it logically or legiti-mately stands. The federal basis on which it once stood no longer existing, the monarchy is only an impediment the monarchy is only an impediment to good government and an obstruction to the prosperity and progress of the islands."

He further says: "As a crown colony of Great Britain, or a territory of the United States government, modifications could be made readily and good administration of laws sourced. The administration of laws secured. destiny and vast future interests of the United States in the Pacific clearly indicate who, at a distant day, may be responsible for the government of these islands. Under territorial govern-ment they could be as easily governed as any existing Territories of the United States. Hawaii has reached the parting of the ways. She must now take the road which leads to Asia or the other which outlets her in America, gives her American civilization and binds her to the care of the American destiny."

He also declares: "One of two courses seems to me absolutely nec-

By Telegraph to The Times. WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(By the Associated Press.) SENATE.—The long looked-for message from the President as to the relations of this government and country, and the Hawaiian Islands was received today, and the reading was listened to most attentively. A request by Senator Chandler for the reading of the instructions of Willis led to a debate of an hour's duration. and they were finally read. The mes-sage and accompanying documents are now before the Senate, the pending question being on the motion of Senator Hoar to refer them to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

The reading of the message was con cluded at 1 p.m., and Senator Chandles called for the redaing of the instruc-tions to Minister Willis. The first doc-ument was the instructions of Secretary Gresham to Willis, dated October 18 1893, marked "Confidential." The first paragraph of the letter had just been read when Senator Butler suggested that time would be saved by having the communication presented instead of read. An hour's debate followed, participated in by many Senators. Senator Allison finally said he had a right to have read every paper sent in by the President, in pursuance of the resolution of the Senate, and thereupon moved that the instructions be read. Mr. Butler withdrew his motion to refer to committee, and the Vice-Presi-dent ordered the instructions to be

HOUSE .- A fight over the Hawaiian matter in the House followed fast and furious on the heels of the reading of the message which was delayed on account of the pension debate until 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The first skirmish occurred over the uestion of reading the instructions to linister Willis, which was insisted upon by Representative Boutelle. The House finally agreed to this. Immediately after the conclusion of the reading, Mr. Boutelle renewed his assault by bringing forward a resolution declaring the administration's policy inconsistent with the spirit of the Con-stitution and the traditions of the government. Great excitement reigned, and in the confusion Mr. Boutelle failed to follow up his parliamentary advantages, and was ruled out of or-A resolution of Representative Cock-

The confusion was so great that the sergeant-at-arms was called in to preserve order. Adjournment was caused by the lack of a quorum on a motion to go into committee. Party feeling ran very high at the close of the session, and there is no doubt that the struggle e continued as soon as opportunity ffers in the House tomorrow. The resolution introduced by Representative Boutelle was as follows "Whereas, the executive communica-tions just read to the House clearly declare that the rights and dignity of the House of Representatives, as co-ordinate branch of Congress, ha been invaded by the executive department, in furnishing secret instructions to the Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States, to conspire with the representatives of a deposed and discredited monarch, for the subversion and overthrow of the established republican government, to which he hwas accredited, and to which his public instructions pledged the good faith and sympathy of the President, government and people of the United States: therefore, "Resolved, it is the sense of the House

Representative Cochran's resolution was as follows:

Whereas, it appears from the mesage of the President that an attempt has recently been made by the executive department of the government to effect a change in the territorial limits of the United States, without any consultation with the House of Representatives, and without making any stipulation or provision for obtaining the consent of the House; and,

Whereas, it is essential to the stability and safety of this government that the powers and duties of the House, on all matters and proceedings involving any change in the limits of the United States or by cession of territory, be asserted, settled and defined, that they may be at all times asserted and defined; therefore, be it

Pearl Harbor perpetually ceded to the United States, with an implied but not expressly stipulated American protectorate over the islands. I believe the former to be better; that which will prove much more advantageous to the prove much more advantageous to the rassing in the end to the United States. If it was wise for the United States, through Secretary Marcy, thirty-eight years ago, to offer to expend $100,000 to secure a treaty of annexation, it certainly cannot be chimercial or unwise to expend $100,000 to secure annexation in the near future. Today the United States has five times the wealth she possessed in 1854, and the reasons now existing for annexa-tion are much stronger than they were then. I cannot refrain from exsing the opinion with emphasis the golden hour is near at hand." HE ASKED INSTRUCTIONS.

These declarations certainly show disposition and condition of mind which may be usefully recalled when interpreting the significance of the Min-ister's conceded acts, or when consid-ering the probabilities of such conduct on his part as may not be admitted. In this view it seems proper to also quote a letter written by the Minister the Secretary of State on the 8th of March, 1892, nearly a year prior to the first step taken toward annexation.

After stating the possibility that the existing government might be over-thrown by an orderly and peaceful rev-olution, Minister Stevens writes as follows: "Ordinarily, in like circumstances, the rule seems to be to limit the landing and movements of United States forces in foreign waters and dominion exclusively to the protection of the United States Legation and of the lives and property of American citi-States to Hawaii are exceptional, and as in former years the United States officials here took somewhat excep tional action in circumstances of disor der, I desire to know how far the pres ent Minister and naval commander may deviate from the established international rules and precedents in the contingencies indicated in the first part of this dispatch."

a minister of this temper-full of zeal for annexation—there seemed to arise, in January, 1893, the precise op-portunity which, by timely deviation from established international rules and precedents, might prove to and precedents, might prove to successfully accomplish the great object in view; and we are quite prepared for the exultant enthusiasm with which, in a letter to the State Department, dated February 1, 1893, he declares: "The Hawaiian pear is now fully ripe, and this is the golden hour for the United States to

A PROCLAMATION MANGLED. As-a further illustration of the ac tivity of this diplomatic representative attention is called to the fact that on the day the above letter was written, apparantly unable to longer restrain his ardor, he issued a proclamation, whereby, "In the name of the United States," he assumed protection of the Hawaiian Islands, and declared the "taken pending and subject to negotiations at Washington. Of course, this assumption of a protectorate was promptly disavowed by our government, but the American flag rened over the government building at Honolulu, and the forces remaine on guard until April, and after Biount's

RENOUNCED FOR THE PRESENT.

A brief statement of the occurrences that led to the subversion of the constitutional government of Hawaii in interests of annexation to the ated States will exhibit the true com-exion of that transaction. On Satur-United States will exhibit the true complexion of that transaction. On Saturday, January 14, 1893, the Queen of, Hawaii, who had been contemplating the proclamation of a new constitution, had, in deference to the wishes and remonstrances of her Cabinet, renounced the project, for the present, at least. Taking this relinquished purpose as a basis of action, the citizens of Honolulu, numbering from fifty to one hundred, mostly resident, alliens, mef in a private office, selected a so-called Committee of Safety, composed of thirteen persons, seven of whom were foreign subjects, consisting of five Americans, one Englishman, and one German. This committee, though its designs were not revealed, had in view nothing less than annexation to the United States, and, between Saturday the 14th and the following Monday, the 16th of January, though exactly what action was taken may not be clearly disclosed, they were certainly in communication with the United States Minister. On Monday morning, the Queen and Cabinet made public a proclamation, with a notice, which was specially served upon the representatives of all foreign governments, that any changes in the constitution would be sought only by the methods provided by that instrument. Nevertheless, at the call, and under the plexion of that transaction. On Monday morning, the Queen and Cabinet made public a proclamation, with a notice, which was specially served upon the representatives of all foreign governments, that any changes in the constitution would be sought only by the methods provided by that instrument. Nevertheless, at the call, and under the auspices of the Committee of States. Nevertheless, at the call, and under the tuspices of the Committee of Safety, a auspices of the Committee of Safety, a mass-meeting of citizens was held that day to protest against the Queen's alleged illegal, unlawful proceedings and purposes. Even at this meeting, the Committee of Safety continued to discuss this real numbers and contracted Committee of Safety continued to disguise their real purpose, and contented themselves with procuring the passage of a resolution denouncing the Queen and empowering the committee to devise ways and means "to secure the permanent maintenance of law and brder, and the protection of life, liberty and property in Hawaii."

This meeting adjourned between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon. On the same day, immediately after such adjournment, the committee, unwilling to take further steps without the co-operation of the United States Minister, addressed a note representing that public don of the United States Minister, addressed a note representing that public safety was menaced and that lives and property were in danger, and concluded as follows: "We are unable to protect ourselves without aid, and therefore pray for the protection of the United States forces."

Whatever may be thought of the other contents of this note, the absolute truth of this latter statement is incon-

When the note was written and delivered, the committee, so far as it appears, had neither man nor gun at its command, and after its delivery they became so panic-stricken at their position that they sent some of their number to interview the Minister and to request him not to land the United States forces till next morning, but he replied that the troops had been ordered and, whether the committee was ready or not, the landing should take place. And so it happened that on the 16th day of January, 1893, between 4 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon a detachment of marines from the U.S. S. Boston with pleces of artillery, landed at Honolulu. The men, upwards of 160 in all, were supplied with double cartridge belts filled with ammunition, and with haver-sacks and canteens, and were accompanied by a hospital corps with stretchars and medical supplies.

unless made either with the consent of the government of Hawali or for the bona fide purpose of protecting the imperilled lives and property of citizens of the United States, but there is not a pretense of any such consent on the part of the government of the Queen, which was, at that time, undisputed, and was both the de facto and de jure government. In point of fact, the existing government, instead of requesting the presence of armed forces, protested against if. There is as little basis for the pretense that such forces were landed for the security of American life and property. If so, they would have been stationed in the vicinity of such property and so as to protect it instead of at a distance and so as to command the Hawaiian government building and the palace.

Admiral Skerrett, the officer in command of our naval force on the Pacific station, has frankly stated that, in his opinion, the location of the troops was inadvisable if landed for the protection of American citizens whose residences and places of business, as well as the legation and consulate, were in a distant part of the city, but that the location selected was a wise one if the forces were landed for the purpose of supporting the provisional government. If any peril to life and property calling for any such martial array had existed, Great-Britain and other foreign powers interested would property calling for any such martial array had existed, Great-Britain and other foreign powers interested would not have been behind the United States in activity to protect their citizens, but they made no sign in that direction. When these armed men were landed, the city of Honolulu was in its customary, orderly and peaceful condition. There was no symptom of riot or disturbance in any quarter, and men, women and children were about the streets as usual, and nothing varied the ordinary tranquility except the landing of the Boston's marines and their march through the town to the quarters assigned them. Indeed the fact that after having called for the landing of United States forces on the plea of danger to life and property, the Committee of Safety themselves requested the Minister to postpone the action exposed the untruthfulness of their representations of present peril to life and property. The peril they saw was an anticipation growing out of guilty intentions on their part, and something which, though not even existing, they knew would certainly follow their attempt to overthrow the government of the Queen without the aid of the United States forces.

Thus it appears Hawaii was taken.

STEVENS SOLUS. Thus it appears Hawaii was taken possession of by the United States forces without the consent or wish of the government of the islands, or of anybody else, as far as shown, except the United States Minister.

the United States Minister.

THEREFORE.

Therefore, the military occupation of Honolulu by the United States on the day mentioned was wholly without justification, either as an occupation by consent or as an occupation by consent or as an occupation mecessitated by the dangers threatening American life and property. It must be accounted for in some other way and on some other ground, and its real motive and purpose are neither obscure nor far to see.

The United States forces being now on the scene, and favorably stationed, the committee proceeded to carry out the original scheme. They met next morning, Tuesday, the 17th, perfected a plan of temporay government, fixed upon its principal officers, ten of whom were drawn from the thirteen members of the Committee of Safety; between I and 2 o'clock, by squads and by different routes to avoid notice, and having first taken the precaution of ascertaining whether there was any one to oppose them, they proceeded to the government building to procelaim the new government. No sign of opposition was manifest, and thereupon an Amerigovernment. No sign of opposition was manifest, and thereupon an American citizen began to read a proclama-tion from the steps of the government building almost entirely without au-ditors. It is said that before the read-ing was finished quite a concourse of ditors. It is said that before the reading was finished quite a concourse of persons, variously estimated at from fifty to one hundred, some armed and some unarmed gathered about the committee to give them aid and confidence. This statement is not important since the one controlling factor in the whole affair was unquestionably the United States marines, who, drawn up under arms and with artillery in readiness only seventy-six yards distant, dominated the situation.

The provisional government thus proclamed was, by the terms of the proclamation, "to exist until terms of union with the United States have been negotiated and agreed upon." The Nevertheless, this wrongful recogni-ion by our Minister placed the government of the Queen in a position of most perilous perplexity. On one hand, she had possession of the palace, of the barracks and of the police station, and at her command at least 500 fully-armed men and several pieces of artillery. Indeed, the whole military force of the kingdom was on her side and at her disposal, while the Committee of Safety, by actual search, had discovered that there were but very few arms in Honolulu not in the service of the governernment of the Queen in a position power and for the sale of her kingdom.

OTHER OFFERS.

Our country was in danger of occupying the position of having actually set up a temporary government on foreign soil for the purpose of acquiring through that agency, territory which we had wrongfully put in our possession. The control of both sides of a bargain acquired in such a manner is called by a familiar and unpleasant name when found in a private transaction. We are not without precedent showing how scrupulously we avoided such accusations of former days. After the people of Texas had declared their independence of Mexico, they resolved that on the acknowledgment of their independence by the United States they would seek admission into the United States. Several months after the battle of San Jacinto, in which Texan independence was practically assumed and established. President Jackson declined to recognize it, alleging, as one of his reasons, that in the circumstances it became the United States "To beware of too early movement, as it might subject us, however unjustly, to the imputation of seeking to establish the claim of our neighbors to territory with a view to its subsequent acquisition by ourselves."

This is in marked contrast with the hasty recognition of the government openly conceded to have been set up for the purpose of tendering us territorial annexation. I believe a candid and thorough examination of the facts will force the conviction that the provisional government owes its existence to armed invasion by the United States.

Fair-mindede people, with evidence before them, will hardly claim that the visional government owes its existence to armed invasion by the United States.

Fair-mindede people, with evidence before them, will hardly claim that the Hawalian government was overthrown by the people of the islands, or that the provisional government ever existed with their consent. I do not understand that any member of this government claims that the people would uphold it by their suffrage if allowed to vote on the question. While maturally sympathizing with every effort to establish a republican form of government, it is the settled policy of the United States to concede to the people of foreign countries the same freedom and independence in the management of their domestic affairs that we have always claimed for ourselves, and it has been our practice to recognize revolutionary governments as soon as it became apparent that they were supported by the people. For an illustration of this rule I need only refer to the revolution in Brazil in 1889, when our Minister was instructed to recognize the republic "so soon as a majority of the people of Brazil should have signified their assent to its establishment and maintenance"; to the revolution in Chile in 1891, when our Minister was disposed to recognize the new government, "if it was accepted by the people," and to the revolution was accorded on condition that the new government was "fully established in the possession of the power of the nation, and accepted by the people."

THE PRESIDENT'S CONTENTION. As I apprehend the situation, we are brought face to face with the following conditions: The lawful government of Hawaii was overthrown without the drawing of a sword or the firing of a shot by a process every step of which, it may safely be asserted, is directly traceable to and dependent for its success upon the agency of the United States government, through its diplomatic and naval representatives. But for the notorious predilections of the United States Minister for annexation, the Committee of Safety, which should be caffed the Committee of Annexation, would never have existed; but for the landing of the United States forces upon false pretexts respecting danger to life and property, the committee would never have exposed itself to the pains and penaltics of treason by undertaking the subversion of the Queen's government; but for the presence of the United States forces in the immediate vicinity and in position to afford all needed protection and support, the committee would not have proclaimed the provisional government from the steps of the government building, and, finally, but for the lawless occupation of Honoliul under false pretexts by the United States forces was its sole support, and constituted its only military strength, the Queen and her government would never have yielded to the provisional As I apprehend the situation, we are brought face to face with the following the Queen and her government would never have yielded to the provisional government even for a time, and for the sole purpose of submitting her case to the enlightened justice of the United States.

States.

Believing, therefore, that the United States, could not, under the circumstances disclosed, annex these islands without justly incurring the imputation of acquiring them by unjustifiable methods, I shall not again submit the treaty of annexation to the Senate for its consideration, and in the instructions to Minister Willis, a copy of which accompanies this message, I have directed him to so inform the provisional government. But in the present instance our duty does not, in my opinion, end with refusing to consummate this questionable transaction. It has been the boast of our government that it seeks to do justice in all has been the boast of our govern-nt that it seeks to do justice in all things without regard to the strength or weakness of those with wnom it deals. I mistake the American people deals. I mistake the American people if they favor the odious doctrine that there is no such thing as international morality, that there is but one law for the strong nation and another for the weak one, and that, even by indidirect action, the strong power may with impunity despoil the weak one of territory.

mand at least 500 fully-armed men and several pieces of artillery. Indeed, the whole military force of the kingdom was on her side and at her disposal, while the Committee of Safety, by actual search, had discovered that there were but very few arms in Honolulu not in the service of the government. In this state of things, if the Queen could have dealt with the insurgents alone, her course would have been plain, and the result unmistakeable, but the United States had allied itself with her enemies, had recognized them as the true government of Hawaii, and had put her in the position of opposition against the lawful authority. She knew she could not withstand the power of the United States, but she recognition of the provisional government by the United States Minister, the palace, barracks and police station, with all military resources of the country, were delivered up by the Queer upon the representation made to her reviewed at Washingson and while per testing that she cannot be incompared to the provisional government, and that she superior force and considiration of the provisional soft in the diplomatic representation of the provisional government, and that she provisional government, and that she provisional government, who in dorsed the reached to the chief of the provisional government, who in dorsed the recognition of armed forces and less of life, and had decigned the matherity to prevent acciding the provisional government, who in dorsed the reached with the knowledge that the Queen, in stead of finally abandoning her power, territory. ETHICS. By the act of a man committed with

On that ground, the United States cannot properly be put in the position of countenancing a wrong after its commission any more than in that of consenting to it in advance. On that ground, it cannot allow itself to refuse to redress an injury inflicted through the abuse of power by officers clothed with its authority, and wearing its uniform, and on the same ground, if a feeble but fflendly State is in danger of being robbed of its independence and its sovereignty by the misuse of power, the United States cannot fail to vindicate its honor and its sense of justice by an earnest effort to make all possible reparation.

These principles apply to the present cause with irresistible force, when the special conditions of the Queen's surrender of her sovereignty are recalled. She surrendered, not to the United States. She surrendered, not absolutely or permanently, but temporarly and conditionally, until such time as the facts could be considered by the United States. Furthermore, the provisional government acquiesced in her surrender in that manner, and in those terms, not only by tacit consent, but through the positive acts of some members of the government, who urged her peaceable submission, not merely to avoid bloodshed, but because she could place implicit reliance upon the justice of the United States, and that the whole subject would be inally considered at Washington.

THE QUEEN REVENGEFUL.

I have not, however, overlooked an incident of the unfortunate affair, rhe Quien Revengeful.

I have not, however, overlooked an incident of the unfortunate affair, which remains to be mentioned. The members of the provisional government and their—supporters, though not entitled to extreme sympathy, have been led to the present predicament of revolt against the government of the Queen by the indefensible encouragement and assistance of our diplomatic and assistance of our diplomatic representative. This fact may entitle them to a claim that in every effort to rectify the wrong of the committee some regard should be had for their safety. This sentiment is strongly seconded by my anxiety to do nothing which would invite either harsh retaliation on the part of the Queen or violence and bloodshed in any quarter.

In the belief that the Queen, as well as her enemies, would be willing to adopt such a course as would meet those conditions, and in view of the fact that both the Queen and the provisional government had at one time apparently acquiesced in the reference the entire case to the United States government, and considering the further fact that in any event the present visional government had at one time apparently acquiesced in the reference the entire case to the United States government, and considering the further fact that in any event the present government, by its own declared limitation, was only "to exist until terms of union with the United States of America have been negotiated and agreed upon." I hope that after the assurance to the members of that government that such union could not be consummated, I might compass a peaceful adjustment of the difficulty.

Actuated by these desires and purposes and not unmindful of the inherent perplexities of the situation, nor of the limitations upon my power, I instructed Minister Willis to advise the Queen and her supporters of my desire to aid in the restoration of the status existing before the lawless landing of the United States forces at Honolulu on the 16th day of January last, if such restoration could be effected upon terms providing for elemency as well as justice to all parties concerned. The conditions suggested, as the last instructions show, contemplate a general ammesty to those concerned in the making up of the provisional government, and the recognition of all its bona fide acts and obligations, in short, they require that the past should be buried, and the restored government could resume its authority as if its continuity had not been interrupted. These conditions have not proved acceptable to the Queen, and though she has been informed that they will be insisted upon and that, unless acceded to, the efforts of the President to aid in the restoration of her government will cease, I have not thus far learned that the is willing to yield them her acquiescence.

official Communications from and to the State and Navy Departments. WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(By the Ascociated Press.) The State Department correspondence on the Hawaiian ques-tion transmitted today is an immense volume of official dispatches, part of which has already been publis which has already been published.

Under date of July 26, 1889, Minister Merrill gives confidential information of a plot of half-caste natives to depose
King Kalakaua and proclaim Queen Liliuokalani. This is what afterward developed into the abortive Witcox revolution of the same year.
Under the date of November 6, 1889,
Secretary Blaine transmitted to Minister Stevens the report of Admiral Kimberly on the uneasiness of the natives who were dissatisfied with the new constitution, and feared future agression by the whites. The admiral recommends that a man-of-war be kept at Honolulu during the February elections. On the same date; Secretary Blaine asks Secretary Tracy to have a force in the Hawaiian waters.
Under date of March 2, 1890, Steyens, begins a series of arguments for some, decisive steps to be taken by the United States to insure the influence over the islands long considered its right and duty.
February, 1891, Stevens reports having gone with the British commissioner to advise the King against efforts he was making to change the constitution.
The advices reltaive to the succeeding portions of the correspondence were transmitted to the Senate by President Harrison with the annexation treaty, and have already been published.

After the Stevens dispatch of March 8, 1892, in which he asks for instructions in event of another insurrection by the Wilcox party then threatening it, is the note: "No answer was found to this dispatch."

it, is the note: "No answer was found to this dispatch."

In the dispatch of April 20, 1892, Stevens said the annexation sentiment is growing rapidly, and would carry all before it provided it could get any encouragement that the United States would take the islands, as a Territory. On November 8, 1892, Minister Stevens reported to Secretary Foster that the American party had won the ascendency after a prolonged struggle. The portion of the correspondence detailing the events of the revolution of last January, and Stevens's arguments for granting the request, of the provisional government for annexation are already public property, as is that of President Harrison to President Dole, acknowledging the provisional government.

On March 24, Stevens reportery Gresham the efforts

anese to secure control of the govern anese to secure control of the government.

The correspondence from Commissioner Blount, the substance of which has already been published, was also transmitted.

On November 6, 1893, Minister Willis reports his arrival, and on November 11 transmits a confidential letter to Secretary Gresham. He expected to interview the Queen, and had assured the British Commissioner that the Queen would be protected from any attempt at assassination, and, on the next Monday would insist upon her coming to the legation. He reported the town to be in a state of excitement. The telegram of November 16, which called out the changed instructions from the State Department reads: "The views of the first party are so extreme as to require further instructions," the first party, of course, referring to the ex-Queen. On November 18, Minister Willis reports that Dafon, Minister of Finance, had called to detail the rumors of trouble on the morrow, Kalakaua's birthday. He adds: "In view of these facts, I thought it proper, in a formal way, to mabe public the fact that there would be no decisive action tagen by our government for three or four weeks, or until I had heard from Washington. I also thought proper, with the private knowledye and consent of all factions, to say that mob violence would not be allowed during the interval.

The last enclosure of the correspondence is a letter from Minister Thurs-mob violence would not be allowed during the interval.

The last enclosure of the correspondence is a letter from Minister Thurston to Secretary Gresham, on December 15. Thurston claims for the provisional government that it is a duly organized and fully-recognized and independent government; denies that the provisional government has submitted to the President the power to arbitrate the case, as between themselves and Liliuokalani; complains that his government has received no notice that it was on tral for life, and has no chance to bring witnesses to refute those of Blount. He argues that the provisional government, in its proclamation, has fixed no termination for itself but annexation to the United States, and denies that it can be said to terminate with the refusal of annexation.

If the United States representative exceeded his powers in the islands, that confers no power on the United States government to again do the same, and if the ex-Queen abdicated under the belief that the provisional government would submit to the arbitration of the United States without the consent of the provisional government.

In transmitting the Hawiian corre-

In transmitting the Hawiian corre-In transmitting the Hawian correspondence to the House of Representa-tives President Cleveland said: "In com-pliance with the resolution of the House, I hereby transmit a report with copies of the instructions given to Albert S. I hereby transmit a report with copies of the instructions given to Albert S. Willis, representative of the United States now in the Hawaiian Islahds, and also the correspondence since the fourth day of March, 1889, concerning the relations of this Government, to those of the islands. In making this communication I have withheld only the dispatch from the former Minister to Hawaii, No. 70, under date of October S, 1892, and the dispatch from the present Minister, No. 3, under date of November 16, 1893, because, in my opinion publication of these two papers would be licompatible with public interests."

The dispatch of November 16, 1893, is without doubt detailed information of the developments which prompted Willis's telegraphic dispatch on the same date to Secretary Gresham, on which was based the order to suspend instructions.

Secretary Herbert submits a masss of correspondence from naval officers in command of the United States naval instructions.

Secretary Herbert submits a mass of correspondence from naval officers in command of the United States naval forces in Hawaii. He yoes back to July, 1889, and it is brought down to Admiral Irwin's brief confidential dispatch of December 4, to Herbert, telling him the provisional government had 1000 men under arms.

On November 1, 1892, Capt. Wiltse reports that the Queen's persistent refusal and obstinacy to appoint a cabinet may precipitate a crisis. On January 18, Capt. Wiltse makes a report on the uprising and the landing of the marines and saliors of the Boston, nuder his command. He says:

"On January 16, there was a large and enthusiastic mass-meetinns, composed of representative men, at Honolulu, held in the largest hall in the city, at 2 p.m. On the same day I received from the United States Minister a request to land the saliors and marines from the Boston, to protect the United States Legation, Consulate, and the lives and property of American citizens, At 4:30 p.m., on January 16, I landed the ship's battallon, under command of Lieutenant-Commander William T, Swinburne. One of the detachments of marines was placed at the Legation and one at the Consulate, while the main body, with two pieces of artitlery, were quartered in a central location, near the government building."

artillery, were quartered in a central location, near the government building."

The text of Minister Stevens's letter to Capt. Wiltse, of January 16, 1893, asking him to land the American troops, was as follows: "In view of the existing critical circumstances, indicating inadequate legal force, I request you to land-marines and sailors from the ship under your copperate for protection of the United States Legation and the United States Consulate, and to secure the safety of American life and property."

Capt. Wiltse then recites how the provisional government was established, the Queen dethroned, and new authorities recognized by the United States Minister. Capt. Wiltse reports to the Secuetary of the Navy on February 1, last, that it is his intention to keep the United States naval forces on shore until the provisional government asks their withdrawal. He says: "There can be no doubt that the prompt landing of the batalion has prevented bloodshed, and saved life and paperty." He also reports that the islands have been placed under the protection of the United States by the formal declaration of Minister Stevens.

On April 6, Admiral Skerrett, then in command, reports the hauling down of the United States flag from the government building by order of Mr. Blount, and says there was no expressions from the citizens. On November 16, last, Secretary Herbert telegraphs Admiral Skerrett not to give aid to cither and the protection of the not of the government of the maval correspondence.

Admiral Irwin's reports make up the Admiral Irwin's reports make up the balance of the naval correspondence. The Admiral confines himself strictly to navit affairs, and at no time mentions political questions.

One interesting dispatch is that which Secretary of State Foster to Minister Stevens. It reads: "your course in recognistic forms of the state of the state retary of State Foster to Minister Stevens. It reads: "your course in recognizing the unopposed de facto government appears to have been discreet and in accordance with facts. The rule of this government has uniformly been to recognize and enter into relations with any actual government in full possession of effective power with the assent of the people. You will continue to recognize the new government under such conditions."

INSTRUCTIONS TO WILLIS.

What the Administration Proposed and What It Didn't Accomplish.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(By the Associated Press.) The original instructions to Minister Willis, dated October 18, 1898, conform closely to the views see footh in the message Mr. October 18, 1893, conform closely to the views set forth in the message. Mr. Willis is informed of the withdrawal of the annexation treaty by the President, and of the President's desire to send a trusted representative to Hawaii to investigate the causes of the so-called revolution, and report the true situation. This was needed to enable the President to discharge a delicate and important public duty.

The instructions previously given to Blount were also furnished to Willis, who was to be similarly guided in his official and personal relations to the islanders. In addition, Willis was informed regarding the President's conclusions from Blount's report. These conclusions were precisely the same as those contained in today's message, conclusions were precisely the same as those contained in today's message, namely, that the provisional government was not established by the Hawalian people, with their consent or acquiescence, nor has it since existed with their consent.

The Queen, he says, refused to surrender to the provisional government until convinced that the United States Ministar had recognized it, and would support it with the United States ministers and by the leaders in the provisional party, that if she surrendered under protest, her case would be thoroughly considered by the President of the United States. The Queen wisely yielded to the armed forces of the United States, relying on the President of the United States. The Queen wisely yielded to the armed forces of the United States, relying on the President's good faith to reinstate her.

Mr. Willis was further instructed that, after patient examination of Mr. Blount's report, the President was satisfied that the movement against the Queen if not initiated, was encouraged and supported by overthrowing the government, and kept the promise by causing troops to be landed from the warships Boston, and by recognizing the provisional government next day.

"On your agrival." says Secretary

the government, and kept the promise by causing troops to be landed from the warships Boston, and by recognizing the provisional government next day.

"On your arrival," says Secretary Gresham to Willis, "you will take advantage of the earliest opportunity to make known to. the Queen the President's position regarding the reprehensible conduct of the American Minister, and the presence on land of the United States forces. Advise her of the desire of this government to do justice and undo the wrong. You will, however, at the same time, inform the Queen that the President expects that she will extend an annesty to all who are against her, including all who were connected with the provisional government, depriving them of no right or privilege. Having secured the Queen's agreement to pursue this policy, you will advise the executive of the provisional government, and his ministers of the President's determination on this question which their action and that of the Queen devolved upon him, and that they are expected to promptly restore her constitutional authority.

"Should the Queen decline to pursue the course suggested, or should the provisional government refuse to abide by the President's decision, you will report the facts and await fuather instructions."

Secretary Gresham telegraphed Mr.
Willis, through the dispatch agent at San Francisco, under date of November 24: "The brevity of your telegrams is embarrassing. You will insist upon an amnesty and recognition of obligations of the provisional government as essential conditions of restoration. All Interests will be promoted by prompt action."

Secretary Gresham also sent the fol-

Secrétary Gresham also sent the fol-lowing telegram:
"Department of State, Washington, Dec. 3, 1893.—Your dispatch received by steamer on the 25th of November seems to call for additional instructions. Should the Queen refuse to assent to within conditions, you at once inform. her that the President will cease his interposition in her behalf, and, while he deems it his duty to endeavor to re-store her as the sovereign of the constore her as the sovereign of the con-stitutional government on the islands, his further efforts in that direction will depend upon the Queen's unqualified agreement that all obligations created agreement that all obligations created by the provisional government in the proper course of administration shall be assumed, and upon such piedges by her as will prevent the adoption of any measures of proscription or punish-ment for what has been done in the measures of proscription or punishment for what has been done in the past by those setting up or supporting the provisional government.

"The President feels that by our original interference, and what followed, we have incurred a responsibility to the whole Hawaiian community, and it would not be just to put one party at the mercy of the other. Should the Queen ask whether, if she accedes to these conditions, active steps should be taken by the United States to effect her restoration or maintain her authority thereafter, you will say that the President cannot use force without the authority of Congress.

"Should the Queen accept the conditions and the provisional government refuse to surrender, you will be governed by previous instructions. If the provisional government asks whether the United States will hold the Queen to the fulfillment of the stipulated conditions, you will say that the President, acting under the dictates of honer and duty, as he has done, in endeavoing to effect restoration, will

President, acting under the dictates of honor and duty, as he has done, in endeavoring to effect restoration, will do all in his constitutional power to cause the observance of the conditions which he has imposed. (Signed) "GRESHAM."

Democrats Indorse the Message, but Repub licans Pronounce It a Backdown.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(By the Associated Press.) Numerous interviews were had by the Associated Press with Senators and Representatives on the Hawaiian message and documents. The Republicans sharply criticise the President's action as a backdown from the original intention to restore the mon archy and on other grounds, while the Democrats applaude the message as able, conclusive and unassailable EX-MINISTER STEVENS.

AUGUSTA (Me.,) Dec. 18.-John L Stevens, ex-Minister to Hawaii, stated that he had not read any of the President's message, but would look it over carefully, and if there was any thing to answer, he would answer i later. He thought Congress was able Oils. to deal with the question and that it was in safe hands. He believed Congress would act wisely in the main. PORTLAND, Dec. 18.-The Oregonian says that Mr. Cleveland had a precon-ceived opinion or notion on Hawaiian He sent his "paramount" ssioner with instructions to affairs. Commissioner with instructions to gather testimony to sustain this preconceived opinion. He was predetermined to restore and to uphold a corrupt and degraded royalty. He found he could not do this, and his message to Congress is a prolonged whine over his failure. Mr. Cleveland does not know the American people. He is not a Democrat, nor a Republican. He is a representative and champion of caste, class and privilege. The whole people of the United States are delighted when he speaks of "the check which my plans have encountered" in Hawaii.

Provision for Establishing Authority in Acquired Territory.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(By the Associated Press.) Senator Morgan, chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, introduced a bill today as to provisional governments. It provides that, whenever the United States shall acquire dominion over any foreign country or place by treaty, annexation or otherwise, the President, with the advice and consent of the Senate; may appoint a governor for the same and a legislative council, whose acts shall be subject to revision or repeal by Congress.

by Congress.
The bill was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Bowell Moved to Respond.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 18.— Mackenzie Bowell, the Canadian Minister of Trade and Commerce, passed through here on his return from Australia and the Sandwich Islands. He said his visit to Honolulu had no political significance:
that he dd not see the Queen, royal family or friends.

A New Occupation.
(Philadelphia Ledger:) Trained at-(Philadelphia Ledger:) Trained attendants for convalescents, chronic invalids, elderly persons and little children is not at all a new occupation, but a new paying business now open to women. A course of thirty lessons in this useful employment is given by the Massachusetts Emergency and Hygienic association of Boston.

Our cut glass has, at last, arrived. We know we are very late with it this year. The cause is first: Most of the patterns exclusive designs, and second, the South ern Pacific Railroad was delayed in trans porting it.

If we are to sell it this week, we must offer to buyers such inducements as will make it go, and realizing the situation. we face its consequences.

Cut glass bears no fancy profits, and if you are interested at all in such goods, the price we have marked on each article will tempt you to buy.

The crystal is of the highest possible quality; the cutting is superb; no cut glass in America excels our stock in all the points that go to make up a perfect piece of crystal.

We ask you to inspect the display in our north window; look today or tonight sure. The stock is inside, and we will be pleased to show you the glass and ex plain its cutting.

We have the following articles in stack:

Cologne Bottles. Decanters. Whisky Jugs. Punch Bowls: Olive Dishes. poon Trays. Rose Bowls. Ice Tubs. Ice Cream Dishes. Violet Globes. Carpets Hair Pin Trays.

Water Bottles. Celery Dishes. Salad Bowls. Vinegan Sugars. Creams.

Peppers. Salts. Table Bells, Fruit Bowls Bon Bon Dishes. Celery Glasses. Nut Bowls.

Syrups. Fancy Dishes. Ring Stands. Claret Decanters.

Water Pitchers. Teni S Pen Trays. Knife Rests.

The ladies would do well to look this line over; if not cut glass, possibly our silver novelties will interest you. The beauty and extent of our stock this year is the talk of the city. You will miss a treat if you fail to come and look it

[CITY COUNCIL RECORD.] THE WORK TO GO ON

Proceedings in the Temple-street Regrading.

The Comissioners Authorized to Employ a Clerk.

Reports of the City Officers Presented to Council.

Proposals for Street Work Opened-To Look Up an Old Graveyard - General Routine Business Trans-

The City Council met at the usual time yesterday.

Councilman Munson moved to In struct the City Engineer to present an ordinance for the sewering of Hope street, between First and Third streets.

Councilman Strohm moved that the City Clerk be instructed to notify the city officers, who had not already done so, and who were required by the charter to present annual reports, to do so forthwith. Adopted. Councilman Nickell moved to take do so forthwith. Adopted.

Councilman Nickell moved to take the annual reports of the city officials, the annual reports of the city officials, which had been presented to the Finance Committee, from that committee and referred to a special committee for investigation as to the advisability of publishing the annual reports of such city officers.

The motion was changed, so as to not take the matter from any committee, but to merely appoint a committee to report as to such advisability. The motion was adopted in this form, and Messrs, Rhodes, Innes and Campbell (the members of the Finance Committee) were appointed as such committee.

ee) were appointed as such committee

A RECESS.

Clerk Luckenbach was called out for Clerk Luckenbach was called out for a moment, and President Teed declared a recess for a few minutes, till the clerk should return.

President Teed then stepped out, and in a moment afterward the clerk came in, and, not noticing that the president was not in the chair, went on with the business on his desk. When he chanced to look behind him and see that there was no one in the chair, he blushed, realizing that the joke was on himself. A general laugh made this fact all the more apparent.

The requisitions for fire department repairs and supplies, a mention of which has heretofore been published, as returned by the Supply Committee, without recommendation, were presented.

Councilman Nickell said he did not see what the Council could do about it, as there was no recommendation, and see what the Council could do about it, as there was no recommendation, and no action was taken on them.

The other requisitions were approved. The manager of the Free Labor Bureau reported for the past week eighty-six applications received, and thirty-nine positions secured. Filed.

REPORTS OF OFFICERS. The City Clerk reported in the mat-ter of the proposed opening of Sunset boulevard, that the time for protest and expired. The City Attorney was instructed to present an ordinance for instructed to present an ordinance for the opening.

The clerk further reported that it would be in order to pass an ordinance ordering the sidewalking of Pasadena avenue, between Wells and Koster streets. Adopted.

Also for the improving of Belmont avenue, between Bellevue avenue and Temple street. Adopted.

The report of the Board of Public Works as heretofore published, was adopted, with the exception of the reommendation in reference to granting permission to property-owners on Maple adopted, with the exception of the recommendation in reference to granting permission to property-owners on Maple avenue to improve by private contract, from which was stricken out the words giving such permission to improve between Eighth and Ninth streets.

The Street Superintendent reported asking, for two more teams and five extra laborers, as the teams were needed for the chain gang on the First-street cut, and the laborers were needed for cleaning streets.

Councilman Munson said that a great deal of work had been ordered done, and she believed the Street Superintendent should have what help he needed.

A motion to refer the matter to the Finance Committee was lost by a vote of 4 to 4, and a motion to grant the help for sixty days was lost by the same vote.

same vote.

The Street Superintendent also asked ermission to put in a cobble-stone utter on the west side of Hill street,

Sixth and Seventh streets On recommendation of the Street Su perintendent, an extension of thirty days' time was granted to F. McGreal in which to complete work on Solano avenue, between Buena Vista street and its western limits. PROPOSALS. The following proposals were read and referred to the Board of Public

MOTIONS.

President Teed moved to instruct the MOTIONS.

President Teed moved to instruct the Street Superintendent to construct a wooden culvert across Del Monte street, on the north side of the Southern Pacific tracks, to carry off storm water. Referred to the Board of Public Works. Councilman Munson moved to advertise for bids to lease the land at Seventh street and the city limits, for purposes of cultivation only. Adopted. President Teed moved to instruct the City Engineer to present an ordinance establishing the grade of Del Monte street. Adopted.

A communication from the Fire Commission recommending the acceptance of the bid of the Gamewell Fire Alarm Telegraph Company, for furnishing fire apparatus, was read, and, on motion, the matter was set for a special order for the next meeting day of the Council at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

John P. James, Esq., appeared and invited the Council and the representatives of the press to be at the City Hall at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, and take a trip to Hollywood over the line of the Cahuenga Valley Railway. The dinvitation was accepted.

On motion of President Teed, the message from the Mayor, dated July 24, 1893, and the petitions from the following marked parties, were taken from the committee of the whole, the subject matter of them having been attended to: T. R. Deering, W. H. Perry, J. Whitaker, S. H. Butterfield, Ayers & Lynch, J. Q. Ayres and Fred Alles. The papers were then ordered filed.

A RESOLUTION.

President Teed introduced the follow ng resolution, and moved its adoption "Whereas, there formerly existed a city graveyard in the western part of the city, at a point somewhere near where the north line of Ninth street would intersect Figueroa street, as shown on Hancock's map.

"Resolved, that the City Attorney by instructed to report to this Council instructed to report to this Council

An ordinance of intention to sidewalk Winston street between Main and Los Angeles streets was passed, as was another for the sidewalking of Los Angeles street between Winston and Fifth streets.

LYELL-STREET PROTEST.

The matter of the appeal of C. H. Rhodes against the decision of the Street Superintendent in accepting work done on Lyell street coming up, Contractor Frick appeared and presented an affidavit showing that C. H. Rhodes did not own the property on that street, which property he claimed to represent. Committeeman Strohm of the Board of Public Works stated that the wood curbs had not been back-filled with good screened gravel, as required, but had been filled with adobe. The walk also did not appear to have been put in as it should be.

On motion of Councilman Innes the matter was referred to the Street Superintendent, with instructions to have the contractor repair the work, and further hearing was postponed one week. LYELL-STREET PROTEST.

ing of First street coming up, Assistant City Attorney Dunn appeared and reported verbally that a number of the signers of the protest, who had not at first shown their authority for signing had since had their authority to do so recognized in court. It was the opinion of the attorney that if the Council were to proceed with the widening the whole matter would probably be tied up for a long time by extended litigation. There were a number of points that might be raised, which, if raised, could not be settled by any previous decisions of the courts. The cases over these points would have to be tried at length, and be settled for themselves. While he was not prepared to state that the protest was a legal one, yet say that it was not. His opinion was that it would probably be advisable to abandon proceedings.

A motion to delay action till this afternoon was lost, and it was finally decided to defer action till next week's meeting.

[COURT RECORD.] MUCH AT STAKE.

Trial of a Sensational Case Commenced.

Contest Over the Guardianship of Itrs. Annie A. Pratt.

Valuable Estate and $40,000 in

In Important Decision by Judge Van Dyke-Southern Pacific Land Cases Before Judge Ross-New Sults.

The matter of the contest as to the guardianship of the person and estate of Mrs. Annie A. Pratt, an incompetent person, came up for trial before Judge Clark in the Probate Court yesterday, and will probably occupy his attention for several days.

The case, which promises to be a sen sational one in many respects, involves the reputation of one of the oldest members of the local bar, some $40,000 in cash, and a valuable estate, consist-in cash, and a valuable estate, consisting of land and personal property in San Francisco and Butte counties.

From the pleadings it appears that, some time ago, Mrs. Pratt, on account of her age and mental weakness, was declared incompetent, and Gen. John Mansfield, but broken by the survey was add to a survey and the competent, and Gen. John Mansfeld, her brother-in-law, was duly appointed as her legal adviser and manager of her estate. His method of conducting her affairs, however, did not meet with the approval of Mrs. Lucy C. Goodspeed, the sole surviving child of Mrs. Pratt, for that lady recently filed a petition asking for the removal of Gen. Mansfield, and the appointment of herself as her mother's guardian in his stead. Mrs. Anah Mansfield, the sister of the incompetent owner of the property in controversy, thereupon filed a counter-petition, in which it was set forth that, as Mrs. Pratt had voluntarily taken up her residence with her sister, and did not want to have anything to do with her daughter, she was the proper person to be appointed guardian.

the proper person to be appointed guardian.

Mrs. Goodspeed, in answer to this, specifically charged that her aunt, Mrs. Mansfield, is trying to get control of her sister's person for the purpose of obtaining large sums of money from her while she is in a feeble state of mind and health; that she prevalled upon Mrs. Pratt to visit Los Angeles, and has kept her here ever since she arrived. She also alleges that, through the connivance of her husband, John Mansfield, she has already secured large sums of money from Mrs. Pratt without consideration, and that the Mansfields have fraudulently obtained over $40,000 of the rents, issues and profits of her property, for which they have as yet failed to account.

The petitioner, Mrs. Goodspeed, is represented by Messrs. C. Hanlon and E. L. Campbell of San Francisco, and Messrs. White & Monroe of this city; while the contestants have retained Messrs. Houghton, Silent and Campbell to look after their interests.

Several witnesses were examined yesterday for the purpose of showing Mrs.

bell to look after their interests.
Several witnesses were examined yesterday for the purpose of showing Mrs.
Pratt's mental and physical condition, she being unable to be brought into court; and, after hearing some testiment with reference to Mrs. Good-speed's qualifications to act as guardian, court adjourned for the day, the matter going over until this morning.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

Ludge Van Duke vesterday, dented Judge Van Dyke yesterday denied the motion to strike out the amended and supplemental complaint in the case of S. E. McDaniel et al. vs. J. H. W. Pattison et al., but sustained the demurrer to the same, for the reasons set forth in the following brief opinion:

set forth in the following brief opinion:
"The original complaint in this actillon was filed April 16, 1859, the plaintiffs claiming as devisees, under an unprobated will of A. M. Pattison, deceased. The Supreme Court (98 Cal., 86) held in this case that the jurisdiction of the Probate Court to establish the will is exclusive, even though the will has been lost or destroyed, or has been fraudulently suppressed, and a court of equity has no jurisdiction to grant relief in such case, either directly or as incidental to jurisdiction over other matters."

The court further says: "Respondents' counsel insist that even if they have not shown a right of action as devisees, yet the have alleged themselves to, be heirs at law, and are therefore entitled. maintain the action in that this case, the coincidence ar the heirs at law and devisees the will are identical, still it doc clow that if the will under which laim to hold as devisees the will are identical, still it does not folow that if the will under which they claim to hold as devisees has not been probated, that they have any right to testator's property as heirs at law. Plaintiffs allege that they are devisees under an unprobated will; if it had been a probated will their position as heirs at law would have had no value whatever, and the fact that it has not been probated does not add strength to their position. As against the pleader, we assume this document to be a valid, genuine will, which would be probated in the regular way, if presented to the Probate Court, and, until presented and probated, these plaintiffs as heirs at law have no right in the property which can be maintained either in courts of law or equity." The court quotes from a note to section 1158 of Pomeroy's Equity Jurisprudence, where that authority says: "On the contrary, the doctrine seems to be general, if not universal throughout the States, that a court of equity will not recognize or act upon a will of land or personal property until it has been admitted to toprobate."

"Since the case was remanded by the Supreme Court, plaintiffs have filed an property until it has been admitted to probate."

"Since the case was remanded by the Supreme Court, plaintiffs have filed an amended and supplemental complaint, in which they now claim as heirs at law. It is alleged in this complaint that the cestate of A. M. Pattison has not been administered upon, but it is not alleged whether he died testate or intestate. In this respect, the complaint is ambiguous and uncertain, and under the rule of law the presumption is against the pleader. In such case, it would appear that there is an unprobated will, as alleged in the first complaint, and, if there be a will unprobated, under the rule of law decided in this case, as just shown, plaintiffs have no standing until the will is probated. Further, there is no sufficient showing why the facts alleged as constituting the fraud complained of were not discovered prior to the time stated; and, if known when they should have been known from the date of the record of the instrument in question, then the action is barred by the statute of limitations."

THOSE LAND CASES.

THOSE LAND CASES.

Argument on the amended demurrer to the complaints in the various cases in which the Southern Pacific Railway Company is plaintiff and settlers on land in Ventura and other counties defendants, was taken up yesterday afternoon, before Judge Ross, in the United States Circuit Court. W. B. Wallace, F. H. Short and E. L. Meserve, Esgs, appeared in behalf of the defendants, while J. D. Redding, Esq., presented the case for the railroad company.

company.
On the demurrer formerly offered to the complaints in the same cases, a decision was rendered which virtually gave judgment for the plaintiffs, when leave was given to file the amended document now under consideration.

Court Notes.

Suit was commenced in the Superior Court yesterday by A. O. Hassforth against W. H. Morton and wife to foreclose an assigned mortgage for $1400 on lot 3 of the Morton Home tract.

When Nate Bradfield was called upon to plead to the charge of assault to murder, in Department One yesterday morning, his counsel presented a demurrer to the information upon statutory grounds, but the same was overruled by the court. Bradfield thereupon entered his plea of not guilty, and his case was set for trial on January 29 next.

Upon motion of the District Attorney the information on file against Henry Deming, charging him with burglary, was set aside by Judge Smith yesterday morning and a new and amended one filed. Deming was then arraigned upon the charge, entered his plea of not guilty thereto, and was ordered to reappear for trial on Thursday next.

Alexander Caresa, the Italian fisher boy recently convicted by a Jury in Department one of simple assault, appeared before Judge Smith yesterday morning to receive his sentence, and was fined in the sum of $50, with the alternative of imprisonment for twenty-five days in the County Jail.

Mrs. Sadie Green was granted a decreé by Judge Smith yesterday morning, to receive his sentence, and was fined in the sum of $50, with the alternative of imprisonment for twenty-five days in the County Jail.

Airs. Sadie Green was granted a decree by Judge Smith yesterday morning, divorcing her from J. L. Green, who submitted to a default therein, upon the ground of adultery.

In Department Three yesterday, Judge Van Dyke presiding, the motion to strike out part of the complaint in the case of Fred A. Berlin et al. vs. the Los Angeles and Pacific Railway Company was granted, but the demurrer of the defendant, the Fosmir Iron Works, to the amended complaint was overruled.

The defendant in the case of M. Lawrence vs. G. P. Bates, an action to foreclose a confract for the purchase of real estate, having submitted to a default, Judge Van Dyke, in Department Three yesterday, ordered a decree for the plaintiff therein, as prayed for.

The demurrer to the complaint in the case of Mrs. Mary Bunkers vs. S. Guasti et al. was overruled by Judge Van Dyke yesterday morning, and the motion to strike out portions of the complaint granted as to the matter specified in the notice of motion, on the ground that it is mostly argumentative or evidential, and all of it irrelevant or redundant.

Monday next being New Year's day, and consequently a legal holiday, the general law calendar will be called in Department Four on Tuesday, January 2, next, the law and motion calendar of that department being continued until January 8.

Charles A. d' Ebro writes from the Australian chambers, saying that he has seen a pamphlet concerning the cohgress, and shall esteem it a great favor if he can be informed as to whether the question of the introduction of proper means of measuring water was considered. He has recently carried off the premium offered by the Victoria Water Supply Department for the best irrigation model, in which there were seventy-five competitors, and he is now making arrangements for its introduction in the States. He is anxious to know what reasonable chance there is of such a machine being adopted. He further states that he compiled with stringent conditions laid down, viz. that it should cost about 515, should deliver from twenty to two hundred cubic feet per minute regularly under varying heads, and should be easy of construction and maintenance. He has arranged for patent rights, and will be pleased to forward particulars and drawings. Experiments are now being made by the Victoria department, which will insure the reliability of the Instrument.

I. N. McColl, Minister of Water Supply for Victoria, writes that he has but lately learned by accident of the great irrigation conference held in Los Angeles. Had an invitation been received, he would have tried to have Victoria represented, as he says he looks upon the event as a most important one in the history of irrigation. He has instructed his secretary to write for reports of the Chamber of Commerce on the list of receivers of the Victoria department publications.

A third letter is from the secretary for the Department of Agriculture at Melbourne, who "has the honor to forward, under separate cover, a copy of the "Victoria Handbook of Viticulture."

GRANTED A DECREE

Close of the Hamilton Divorce Case.

The Charge of Extreme Cruelty Fully Sustained.

Mrs. Hamilton Given the Custody of the Children.

With the Exception of the Two Eldest Boys-Sensational Episodes During the Trial-Judge Van Dyke's Remarks.

A large crowd of spectators, among whom were some of the most fashion-able representatives of the local 400, assembled in Judge Van Dyke's courtroom, yesterday afternoon, to witness the closing scenes in the Hamilton di-vorce suit. Those who went there with the expectation of seeing or hear-ing something of a sensational nature ust have been agreeably surprised, for there were several developments of a decidedly sensational nature during the course of the afternoon.

When the case was called at 2:10 o'clock, Mrs. Adelaide Muller, the missing witness for the defense, was called to the stand. She proved to be a tall brunette, apparently about 30 years years of age, and that she was in a mood that boded ill for the defendant was undisguisable.

In response to the interrogations of Mr. Stevens, the witness snapped out that on Saturday last she went down to Redondo Beach, where her husband is in business, but had returned to town that on Saturday last she went down to Redondo Beach, where her husband is in business, but had returned to town on Sunday evening with her brother. Fred Melles, who had served an attachment upon her, and remained at his house until half an hour before coming into court. She had not discussed the Hamilton case with any one, and did not leave her rooms in the Vickery Block in order to avoid testifying in the case. She was not subpoenced by Charles A. Trinkner on December 9 last in her room, and when that worthy was called upon to stand up in the courtroom for inspection, the denied having ever seen him before. She admitted that Hamilton had called at her rooms some ten days ago, but emphatically denied that in the presence of her mother, or at any other time, had she stated that she had seen Mrs. Hamilton drunk four times since January 1 last.

When questioned as to the reason for her only too palpable hostility toward the defendant, Mrs. Muller explained to the court that some time ago, shortly after Mrs. Hamilton commenced, suit, she called to see the plaintiff about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and learned for the first time that she had left her house on account of Hamilton's treatment of her. Hamilton, however, interviewed her and wanted her to testify that his wife was a drunkard, but she refused to do so, and he locked her up in the house. She subsequently told her husband and Mrs. Hamilton's attorney of this incident, but no one 'eise. Witness was not cross-examined.

orney of this incident, but no one fise. Witness was not cross-examined. Immediately after Mrs. Muller had eft the stand another sensational incident occurred. Mrs. Bird, an elderly forman was called, and, as she took ar seat in the witness' chair, Judge and Dyke handed her a sheet of pacer, which he had just been examinate, and sternly asked: "Did you write his?"

Int. and sternly asked: "Did you write his?"

After nervously glancing at the document. Mrs. Bird admitted that she was the authoress of its contents, adding that she had written it voluntarily for the sake of the children, who had always been treated kindly in her presence. She denied emphatically that Mrs. Hamilton had requested her to do so, or knew anything about it.

The Court. Don't you know that it is very improper to write a letter concerning a case to the judge who is trying it, and that any one who does so is in contempt? If I though you were aware af the impropriety of your action, I should certainly commit you for contempt, but I presume you did it through ignorance. That's all, madam. Stand adde.

The letter was thereupon handed by Stand aride.

The letter was thereupon handed by Judge Van Dyke to counsel for the plaintiff, who in turn passed it on to the defendant's attorney, by whom it was returned to the bench; but its contents were not made public

Mrs. Walter S. Maxwell, Miss Violet Truedell and Dr. H. Nadeau were called in rebuttal by the plaintiff to refute the allegation that Mrs. Hamilton was intemperate, and this closed the case for the plaintiff the allegation that Mrs. Hamilton was intemperate, and this closed the case for the plaintiff

The defendant. Samuel Hamilton, thereupon took the stand and denied emphatically that Mrs. Muller had ever been to his house since his wife had left it, or that he had ever locked that lady in.

Both sides closed at 3 o'clock, and Mr. Valentine expressed his willingness to submit the matter without argument. C. C. Stephens, however, insisted upon presenting a few points, and the result was that it was 4:30 o'clock before the matter was submitted to the court.

Junge Van Dyke, in summing up, snid: "The court realizes that this is a sad case, an exceedingly sad one, from the fact that the parties have lived together for over twenty years, and have a family of young children upon whom their difficulties cannot fail to have some influence. Counsel for the defendant advises that it would be better for all concerned to refuse plaintiff a decree, and expresses it as his opinion, that although irreconcilable at present, they may in future resume their former relations. I wish I could see my way to do so, if there is such a possibility, but unfortunately I cannot.

"The plaintia" has made her case see my way to do so, it there is such a possibility, but unfortunately I cannot.

"The plaintiff has made her case upon the allegations of her complaint, but the defendant was not satisfied with denying these allegations in his answer, bue must file a cross-complaint charging her with drunkenness and cruelty. It is a disgrace to any woman or man to be a drunkard; but to charge a woman with it without cause is far worse than any physical cruelty a man can inflict.

"I abhor divorces, and would be very glad if I never had another in my court. For this reason, I invariably give the defendant in a case of this kind every opportunity to defeat the plaintiff's case; but, so far as this plaintiff is concerned, she has made her case, and is entitled to her decree. This court is not at liberty to deny her a decree, however much it may desire to do so, for, under the statutes, the plaintiff is entitled to a decree, if the allegations of the plaintiff are supported by competent evidence, which has been done in this case. A decree is therefore ordered for the plaintiff."

At this juncture one of the boys stole up to Mrs. Hamilton's chair, and affectionately placed his arms around her neck, and the mother, touched by this tribute of affection, broke down completely, bowing her head upon the table before her and sobbing hysterically.

After speaking of the children briefly, the court awarded the custody of eight of the younger ones to Mrs. Hamilton, the two elder boys being placed in their

The two edges to by being placed in their father's care.

The question of property being raised, Mr. Stephens gallantly said that so far as his client was concerned Mrs. Hamilton and her children might move into the house tomorrow, as Mr. Hamilton would offer no objections.

Judge Van Dyke, however, remarked sternly that the court understood that there was no dispute as to the prop-erty, which belonged to Mrs. Hamilton before her marriage, and that she could, of course, take possession when-ever she pleased. The defendant, be-ing no longer her husband, had no right there at all after the decree was signed.

A posse at once started in pursuit, but at this writing his capture has evidently not been effected.

The assumption is that after the gang left he turned back and took the river bed, followed up the willows that skirt it and will endeavor to take the train for Los Angeles at some of the flag sta-tions where he might be unobserved, or else go across the Simi Cemetery and through the Santa Susanna and Cahuenga passes. Dr. Hinckley arrived at the scene of the shooting soon after and extracted the ball a 38-caliber, from the wounded man's back and did all he could to relieve his sufferings for the short time he has to live. Mes-sages have been sent both cast and west, and to Chief Glass at Los Angeles and it is hoped the murderer will speedily apprehended.

Dispreying a Common Saying.

(St. Louis Republic:) It is a well-known fact that the "bolts of Jove" seem to have special spite at certain spots, and that the old saying: "Light-ning never strikes twice in the same place," is as false as most of the old proverbs are. The writer knows of a tree that has been struck by lightning five times since July 3, 1884, a gate-post standing within two rods of that tree having twice been struck since the same date. During the last seven years live horses have been killed by lightning on a single knoll on the French farm, which lies on the road leading from Film to Flushing, Mich. and nearly every tree on the same farm is said to bear the marks of the "forked fury." An open lot at East Great Plains, Ct., has been "hit by thunderbolts," as an old resident of that place expresses it, cleven different times since the spring of 1887, and a piece of woods not more than half a mile away has been literally riddled by the electric shots. At West Heath, Mass., a hill near the village schoolhouse has been struck by lightning so often that the old settlers have tired trying to keep a record of the singular occurrences. Two miles out from the little village of Cosport, lowa, two houses and a barn have been struck by lightning on a patch of one-fourth of an acre, and several head of stock were killed on the same spot before it was fenced for residence purposes.

THIRTEENTH YEAR

CONGRESSIONAL IGNORANCE.

The average Easterner has an idea that his section of the country has something like a monopoly of education and culture, and that we of the "wild and woolly West" are, as a rule, an uneducated set of people. Of cours eled and intelligent Eastern people who know better than this, but still any Californian who has made a trip through the Eastern States is aware how contemptuously the average citizen of Boston, or Philadelphia, or New York regards the Western section of the country, when it comes to discussing anything beyond its natural resources.

Nor is this spirit confined to the Atlantic Coast. As population has moved west, the still further West has been always regarded in something of the light of a country to which it is desirable to send missionaries. It is not necssary to remind the readers of a Pacific Coast journal show entirely ento a question of the general diffusion of education, the extreme West com-pares more than favorably with other sections of the country.

The people who inhabit this section are, to a great extent, the pick of the United States. Those who come from the East have brought their culture and intelligence with them, and have added thereto that resistless enter prise and energy which seem to exist in the very atmosphere of this region.

When it comes to the question of knowledge of the natural features and resources of this, our native country

o hide his head in shame. Many Eastern people who would scornfully resent the imputation that they are not people of the highest culture and education, and who are as familiar with the great capitals of Europe as with the streets of their native cities, often display such dense ignorance in regard to that section of their own country west of the Mississippi as would be amusing were it not painful and hu-

There was an incident in the Hous

on Friday, during the discussion of the bill for the admission of Arizona, which illustrates this point and strik ingly remains one of a somewhat similar incident which occurred years ago when the admission of California into Congress. Representative Hepburn of Iowa objected to one clause of the bill for the admission of Arizona as a State to the Union, and when the dele-gate from Arizona suggested that a good many people would leave Iowa to go to Arizona, Mr. Hepburn scouted the idea as preposterous. He said he Arizona, Mr. Hepburn scouted had been out in Arizona, and never say a green thing there, "unless it wore funny, but he certainly displayed an ignorance in regard to a large and in-portant section of his native country case of a private citizen, and is still less so when the speaker is a Representative in Congress. It might certainly be ex-

Eastern people, or at least such of them as have achieved the honor of being elected to represent the country in Congress, should have learned the fact which every schoolboy in the United States knows by this time, namely, that the Great American Desert of th old geographies is a myth, and that the capacities of the great country which lies between the Rocky Mountains and the Pacific Ocean are only limited by the possibilities of obtaining water to irrigate those extensive sections, which, though at present arid, are none the less rich in soil than other sections which are today justly regarded as the gardens of the United States. A little over forty years ago when it was proposed to admit the then little-known Territory of California to the Union, there was some ex-even among our legislators. It will be remembered that on this occasion mer whose names have become historical arose in Congress and vigorously de-nounced the folly of admitting as a State a Territory which never could be anything else than a worthless desert of shifting sand. Such ideas were excusable at a time when a journey to California was regarded in much the same light as the American of today would view a trip to the interior of Africa; but, surely, in these days of lightning trains and palace cars, not to speak of telegraphic dispatches and books of travel, the Eastern man who pretends to have an ordinary amount of education, and espeof writing M. C. after his name, should take the trouble to inform himself of a few primary facts in regard to this and the Pacific Ocean, Residents of

THE PRESIDENT ON HAWAII.

The only hew fact disclosed in the President's message on the Hawalian question is that the Queen has refused the terms offered by the United States. Hence the hesitation of Mr. Willis.

The document is something in nature of a brief, submitted to Con-

Mr. Cleveland enlarges upon the extraordinary haste which characterized all transactions connected with the which was under consideration by the Senate when the present admintration came into power. This, and other facts, led him to select Mr. Blount-whose character is strongly commended-to report on the actual facts. Ex-Minister Stevens is given a severe "raking over," and facts at mentioned which go to show that he h all along been an ardent advocate of annexation. In fact, Mr. Stevens's enthusiasm sometimes led him into the ealms of eloquence and metaphor. In February, 1893, he wrote to the State Department: "The Hawaiian pear is fully ripe, and this is the golden On the same day that this letter was written, Mr. Stevens issued a procla-mation, assuming the protection of the Islands "in the name of the United States." subject to the result of negotiations at Washington. Referring to the landing of marines from the Boston, on January 16, 1893, Mr. Cleveland

This demonstration upon the soil of Honolulu was of itself an act of war unless made either with the consent of the government of Hawaii or for the bona-fide purpose of protecting-imunless made either with the consent of the government of Hawaii or for the bona fide purpose of protecting imperiled life and property of citizens of the United States. But there is not a pretense of any such consent on the part of the government of the Queen, which was at that time undisputed, and was both de facto and de jure. In point of fact, the existing government, instead of requesting the presence of an armed force, protested against it. There was little basis for the pretense that such forces were landed for the security of American life and property. If so, they would have been stationed in the vicinity of some property and so as to protect it, instead of at a distance and so as to command the Hawaiian government building and palace. Admiral Skerrett, the officer in command of our naval forces on the Pacific station, has frankly stated that, in his opinion, the location of the troops was inadvisable if landed for the protection of American citizens, whose residences and places of business as well as the legation and consulate, were in a distant part of the city."

From this he draws the conclusion of that Hawaii was taken possession of

From this he draws the conclusion that Hawaii was taken possession of consent or the wish of anybody, as far Minister. This is putting it rather strong, to say the least. There was on the islands in favor of annexation The conclusion which Mr. Cleveland follows:

"As I apprehend the situation, we are brought face to face with the following conditions: The lawful government of Hawaii was overthrown without drawing a sword or firing a shot; by a process, every step of which it may safely be assumed was directly traceable to and depended for its success upon the agency of the United States government, through its diplomatic and naval representatives."

There is nothing in the message calculated to change the opinions of those who have already formed any, Mr.

reles ought to be able to do in the same line. The meof Southern California should pose any such proposition from the outset. They would do this, not because they considered the project unadvisable, but because they were prejudiced against it through lack of knowledge of the facts relating to the territory which it would be proposed to benefit It really seems as if every man who runs for Congress should first be compelled to take a trip through the United States and get a general idea of the "lay of the land," or at least be compelled to take a course in a few ele mentary works descriptive of the country, and pass a simple examination thereon, sufficient to show that he has the Congress district which he as olres to represent. It should not be considered sufficient that a Congressman is acquainted with the affairs of his own district, for his vote is con-stantly called for on matters which other sections of the country, or the country at large.

For this reason, it is only just and reasonable to expect that our legisla-tors should possess a good general in-formation in regard to the entire coun-The lack of such information works special injustice to such sections as the Pacific Coast, which, having a omparatively small representation Congress, must, therefore, depend to great extent on the good will of repcountry.

As to Arizona, that great political division of the country will doubtless be able to take care of itself, without asof his colleagues who are as ignorant as he is. Arizona holds out as great promise of the future as California did when it was admitted to the Union. It has already passed through the tran-sition period, which California did not reach until some years after it became a State. The era of mining is giving way to the era of agriculture, and there is every indication that agriculture and horticulture will, within a few years, overshadow mining in Arizona to as great an extent have done in California. The fertile valleys of the Salt Gila and Colorado rivers already give promise of what the Territory is capable of in this line. Many of the fruits which are raised in this State are being successfully grown in Arizona, and they ripen, as a rule, even earlier than with us, thus realizing the highest prices in the Eastern market. There is an enormous amount of water which goes to waste in Arizona every year, and some important storage enterprises are under way, the result of which will be to place under cultivation hundreds of is capable of growing some of the most valuable products that are raised in this country. A strong tide of immigration has already set in from the East and it even includes a considerable number of homeseekers from Mr. Hepburn's State. #### 'PARAMOUNT" BLOUNT OF CROOKED

It may interest the readers of The Times to know that the name of Blount is by no means one to conjure with respecting our foreign relations, taken in connection with an incident of almos tury ago, and the all-absorbing one of the present hour.

William Blount of North Carolina was appointed by President Washington Governor of the territory south of the Ohio, in 1790, and, during his ad-ministration of that office, entered into a cabal with England to turn over to that power the then Spanish possessions of North America bordering on the Mississippi. The Blount of that day failed signally, as, it is hoped by the that the present Blount will fail in hi anti-American and pro-English treat-ment of the Hawaiian question.

The course of the former Blount was so severely reprobated that he was im-peached by the House of Representatives of the United States and expelled from the Senate, he having obtained, subsequent to his disgraceful conduct, an election to that body from the now State of Tennessee.

The chain of coincidence would be dmost complete were "My Commissioner" Blount to succeed Colquitt in the United States Senate; and this is said to be the order of the powers that truckle to the big man at Washing-

In an eastern exchange an interview is printed with a cloak manufacturer of Philadelphia, who is an Englishman by birth. He states that if the Wilson bill shall become a law he will remove his plant to England. The tariff im posed on his goods brought him to this country, the material reduction in duties as proposed, would send him back duties as proposed, would sell to England, where wages are 65 per to England. argest element in cost of production is labor, and if we are to compete with foreign labor 65 per cent. lower than ours we must be prepared to accept wages as low. And "free raw mater ials" will not make the difference, for we produce the greater part of our own and do not need to import them.

Gov. McKinley recognizes the distres which prevails among the masses, and has declared that he will have no costly emonstration at his inauguration. He regards the spending of money for such purposes during these times as almost criminal. Therefore he will almost walk into the Senate chamber, take th ath of office and return to the executive room. Gov. An Interesting Letter from a Former Angeleno.

ing About the Great School at That Place-How It Has Grown from a Small Beginning-Other

The following letter from Miss Minnie S. Baxter, now a "mission teacher" at Sao Paulo, Brazil, will be read with interest by the many friends of the lady in this city:

"SAO PAULO (Brazil,) Sept. 27, 18 "My dear friends of The Round Table of the King, Los Angeles, Cal., U. S. A.: Just six days ago was marked in my memory one of the three anniversaries which crowd themselves upon me, that of the day when, from the deck of the good ship Vigilancia, I took my last, long look at the receding shores of our beloved America and watched the light of "Liberty" grow dim in the distance, for we left toward night and the rays from her torch lighted us on our way. Some of you know how for twenty-seven days we never touched solid ground, and the first Brazilian soil we stepped upon was at Ilha (eelya) Grande, the quarantine port for this country. However, I think none of us were sorry to have that trip around the beautiful island, or to explore, as we did, the pretty canyon with its stream of fresh, living water, and the twenty-four hours' delay for needless fumigation only enhanced our joy in reaching Rio and setting foot at last upon the land which was to serve for an abiding place, at least for a few years.

"The sixth of this month also remy memory one of the three anni-versaries which crowd themselves upon years.

"The sixth of this month also reminded me of the day one year before, my last in Los Angeles for some time, and of the little company of friends, some of you among the number, who came down to see that I started away properly from the station. The third anniversary is still to come, though not a month away, and will tell me that I have been here a year in Sao Paulo October 21.

"I wonder if you have a continue."

"I wonder if you have a good idea of what this place is, to which I have come, and of the character of the work in this, one of the largest and most important of the Presbyterian missions. I cannot tell you much of Brazil in general, for I have delayed studying it up until I could do so in the language of the country, as it is so vast a subject that I shall have no slight task before me when I begin. My interest for the past year has centered in Sao Paulo, he past year has centered in Sao Paulo, city and State, and especially in the Eschola Americana, Rua Sao Joao, 109. city and State, and especially in the Eschola Americana, Rua Sao Joao, 109. Brazil is, as you may know, more or less the size of the United States, exclusive of Alaska; possibly larger, for a part of it is still unexplored, with boundaries undefined. The State of Sao Paulo (by the way, if you pronounce it San Paulo you will come nearer saying it right than by pronouncing it Sao) is somewhat larger than the State of Arkansas, and its boundries, too, are not definitely known in the west, being in dense, 'virgin forest. These Brazilian forests are literally impassable, except one penetrate them with knife in hand—immense, fierce-looking knives they use—but the beauty of such a forest cannot be described.

"The old geography pictures of immensely tall trees, whose branches, interwover with vines and abounding in endless varieties of parasites, seem a solid mass, hardly distinguishable from the tall, rich vegetation, reaching up from below—with monkeys and boaconstrictors suspended here and there by way of ornament—are, from what I have heard, no exaggeration of what one may see any day in the regions of the Amazon, and, with the exception of the snakes and the monkeys, the sight is familiar to me. You cannot imagine, however, the exquisite coloring given by the profusion of tropical sight is familiar to me. You canno imagine, however, the exquisite color ing given by the profusion of tropical flowers among the foliage, or the grace-fulness with which the robes of these fulness with which the robes of these forest giants have been draped with real lace and ribbons by the artistic hand of Mother Nature. She has cer-tainly lavished much of the wealth of her affection upon her South American child.

"Brazil is healthful and unhealthful, as the case may be. Along the coast, and in many of the hot, interior localities, fevers abound, especially yellow fever; but among the mountains it is very healthful indeed. Sao Paulo, as you will see by the map I send you, is very high, and is zoonsidered one of the most healthful cities in Brazil. The capital of the State of Sao Paulo it has over one hundred thousand inbahi the most healthful cities in Brazil. The capital of the State of Sao Paulo it has over one hundred thousand inhabitants; but 20,000 of these are Italians; dirty, ragged people, but people who have done much of the actual work in the streets—such as paving—on the railroads, and many are found on the fezendas. Some of the streets are excellent productions of parts of Italy—so say those who know. Tonight as we were out for a walk I saw a funny picture; a mother swung a little bundle out of the doorway down upon the pavement. It was the baby, suspended by a strong band about the waist, probably about to take a lesson in walking. "Sao Paulo is beautifully situated upon a plateau, with mountains in the distance that remind me of the Sierra Madre range at home, while I can almost be sure that Cahuenga Pass is off to the northeast. From the hills the mountains and sunsets take me back to California, the view is so restful and helpful.

"And now as to the school. It has been established a little over twenty years, and has increased from a beginning of two pupils to an enrollment of about four hundred and fifty, with two boarding departments for the boys and girls. About fifty of these pupils are in the boarding department, or "Infernatos," while the others are day pupils.

"The course of study extends from and girls. About lifty of these pupils are in the boarding department, or "Internatos," while the others are day pupils.

"The course of study extends from the lowest primary to high school work, reaching over a little into college studies, and includes a manual training department for the boys. The languages taught besides Portuguese, are English, French, Latin and Greek. French is begun with third-year pupils, and I am doing a little in English with the 'babies,' which they think great fun; and so you would, too, if you had heard them the other night. I said to them, as they were going, 'Good-by, children,' and they with one accord and beaming faces, replied, 'Good-by, children,' and they with one accord and beaming faces, replied, 'Good-by, though the custom is not universal. I visited the 'Eschola Normal' the other day, and saw there whole rooms full of boys, others with girls, but none with the two together. The aim of the school is to plant here modern, American methods of teaching; to raise the standard of education, in short, to do something toward breaking down the wall of ignorance and superstition which has kept in darkness the great mass of this people for so long, and behind which an intelligent people have been shut out, as it were, from the light of the common day, as well as from the greater play of the Sun of Righteousness. This is not the fault of the people, but the result of the dominance of Romanism in Brazil for so many centuries.

dominance of Romanism in Brazil for so many centuries.

"The Eschola Americana is a pay school, and self-supporting—that is it pays annually into the mission treasury enough to cover its own expenses. Our board has also two other schools, one in the State of Parana, at Curitaba, and the other at Botucatu, this State. We have just started services in a new part of the city, on Sundays, and take the girls and boys over with us—the girls from here and the boys from the Boys' Internato, a management of the city of the ci from here—for Sunday-school and church. Mr. Waddell preaches for us in Portuguese. (Mr. Waddell was at one time pastor in San Pedro, Los Angeles county, Cal.) We hope soon to organize there into a church. It is a part of town in which no mission work has yet been done, and we are all glad to begin, though as yet, having been there but three Sundays, only the school and a few Americans have been there. It seems like real work, indeed, to have a class—the little boys and girls belonging to me, of course. "It seems as though the only good that can be done here must be done through the children—and even that, perhaps, will not show yet. I have heard ever since I came, that the only way we can expect to do is to work on and on without the least result visible. I want you all to pray that we may be faithful in every least duty and opportunity, never despairing, though things do look dark so often. It almost seems hopeless, sometimes, but real work never is in vain. The children are very intelligent, more precoclous in their earlier years, I think, than those at home; though developing so rapidly, the fires are apt to burn out more quickly. They are sweet and lovable, many of them. I dearly love my little tots, so tiny some of them are, their ages running from 4 to 10, eyes of blue to black, hair from golden curls to straight black locks. One custom, a really Brazilian one, is that of shaking hands; and, as I go out to my tom, a really Brazilian one, is that of shaking hands; and, as I go out to my shaking hands; and, as I go out to my schoolroom in the morning, through the girls' yard, I am sometimes besieged by the little chicks, with outstretched hands, and must needs stop and greet each one separately, or, as sometimes happens, grasp three or four at once, give a good shake and escape amid the giggles and laughter of the merry group.

classes. Donas Beatriz has charge of the music—vocal—and is of Spanish parentage.

"Then our little secretary, Dona America, or Dona America Brazilia de. Oliveira, mustn't be omitted, for I don't know what the school would do without her. She understands English as well as I do, and can speak it, too, but is too shy to venture very often—hence we often carry on some very funny conversations—she in Portuguese and I in English—without noticing at all what we are doing, or finding anything strange in it. One is very apt to use more English than Portuguese here at school, except when actually in the classroom, because it is so generally understood.

"I suppose you know that you have sent the Charleston down to us, don't you? We were glad to hear of its arrival in Rio. We are much interested to see what will be the outcome of the revolta' now going on here. They are having exciting times in Rio, but the clity has not been bombarded, as has been reported. Shells have been fired at the ports, which are situated incomfortably near some residences, and several lives have been done, but it is impossible to get a fair account of things, for all news is suppréssed except on the side of the government. This is a critical time for Brazil. There is no danger here in Sao Paulo, for the war is carried on at the coast.

"Now I am superactive." is no danger here in Sao Paulo, for the war is carried on at the coast.

"Now I am sure nothing but an apology is in order for wearying you with so long a letter, for I haven't even the claim on your time of a relative of the control of the con ogy is in order for wearying you with so long a letter, for I haven't even the claim on your time of a missionary—you know I am not one, only a 'mission teacher.' But there is plenty of missionary work to be done by whomisoever will see it and take hold, be he missionary in name, or in spirit only. As for me, you know I think we Christians should be missionaries wherever we are, and in whatever way our nature and surroundings fit us for the work. I do not think one is more of a missionary because he is in a foreign land, than he should be at home, nor that he needs be less of one at home than another surrounded by a strange people and strange customs. Yet, I admit that one sees the need, perhaps, more when he finds himself one of a very few arrayed against ignorance and its accompanying evilis, so I think one could scarcely live in a place like this—and be in a family of girls as we are—and not want to help them nearer to the Savior; show them if possible the loving Friend and them nearer to the Savior; show them, if possible, the loving Friend and Companion whom they know only, if at all, by a name so often lightly re-peated that it must have no meaning for them. There is a field for prayer-ful, thoughful work right here in this ful, thoughful work right here in this house, and though we may never see the results, yet the One in whose name it shall be done, will bless every consecrated effort as He has promised. His word shall not return unto Him void. Will you not ask that we do what we can in His strength, doubting not? I should like to peep in at your meeting, to greet the dear, familiar faces—how well I remember the last one I attended at Mrs. Chambers's. "God bless you, every one. "Lovingly, one of your number, "MINNIE S. BAXTER."

The Message Printed in London Before it

Was Delivered.

(New York Press:) Unprecedented things are constantly happening under the Cleveland administration. For the first time in history, the message of the President of the United States was known in London before it was in Washington or New York. The London stock market closes at 3 p.m., which is about 10 a.m. in New York city. The President's message was not given out until about noon at Washington, and the first hint of its contents came to New York by cable from Loncame to New York by cable from L

The Wallstreet Journal, a financial organ, at once cabled to London, asking if there was anything about a bond issue in Cleveland's message. The following answer was actually received and printed in Wall street before the message was given out in Washington:
"There is no promise in the President's message of a bond issue, but a hint that one may come. Main point in message is urgent request that Wilson tariff bill be passed at once."

It actually seemed that the headquarters of the Cleveland administration was in London for the time being, and that the stock exchange, first of London and then of New York, received the earliest inside information of the President's recommendations. It was recalled that a few weeks ago the first news of the Hawaiian episode was received by way of London and Auckland.

The White House clerks having charge of the advance proofs of the message were under oath not to reveal any of Rs contents, but some one in the confidence of the President must have cabled to London in time to make the information of use before the stock exchange there closed for the day.

The Feat of an Ohio Village.

(Cincinnati Times-Star.) The little college town of Granville, O., about three hundred miles distant from Chicago, sent 425 of its citzens to the World's Fair, out of a total population of 1366. This is said to be a jarrent proportion than was sent by any other town or city in the country. The Inter Ocean estimates that Ohio furnished more visitors to the fair than any other State except illinois. Whether the Ohio man also carried off the lion's share of the prizes doesn't yet appear, but it would be just like him.

MUSEMENT RECORD.1 AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

LOS ANGELES THEATER :- Charles L Davis opened to a light house at the Los Angeles Theater last night in his downeast extravaganza "Alvin Joslin," and while he was on the stage the house was full of hilarity, not at what Mr. Davis says, but at the way here the stage the stage the stage the stage the house was full of hilarity, not at what Mr. Davis says, out at the way he says it, for he has a droll nanner and numberless catch bits of business that seemed to amuse his audience last evening, if laughter be an evidence thereof. His play is a wildly impossible creation of the "Old Homestead" type, with but little of its pastoral truth and simplicity, not a bit of pathos and a plethora of old school melodramy that, in the hands of old school melodramr that, in the hands of our school melouramr that, in the hands of the players who appeared in most of the parts, was but a little short of ridiculous. The play is wholly Alvin Joshin and when he is off the boards the proceedings border on the tiresome. The scenery is excellent, that of the Brooklyn bridge being es-Grumbler-"Listen to My Tale of Woe. LOS ANGELES, Dec. 16, 1893.—(To the Editor of The Times.) As a visitor to your city (this being the third winter,) it is with regret I notice the filthy condition of your streets. It has been my pleasure, after my former visits, upon my return in the spring to my Eastern home to call attention to your cleanly streets. I am glad to find the climate of Southern California unchanged, but why such a change in your formerly well-kept and often sprinkled streets? This is surely not an Eastern tourist, for of what advantage is the exhibitanting air of this God's country if we are not allowed to breathe it for dust?

El Rio Colorado Grande. GARVANZA, Dec. 10, 1893.—(To the Editor of The Times.) In reading your article in today's Times, setting forth article in today's Times, setting forth the difficulties of the Colorado River Irrigation Company, in carrying out their plans to irrigate the desert lands in the vicinity of Yuma. the question presented itself: How is it possible that any company could or should acquire the right to appropriate the waters of the Colorado River for such purposes?

Are not all navigable streams public control of the United States government?

In view of the fact that the Colorado Riyer is at present navigable for a considerable distance above its mouth, and that there has been more or less agitation toward inducing Congress to make an appropriation for dredging eaid river, and increasing its capabilities for navigation, is it proper that a corporation should be granted the right to divert the waters of the river from their natural channel?

If (as has been stated) it is true that by a comparatively small expenditure,

If (as has been stated) it is true that by a comparatively small expenditure, the river can be made navigable for 700 miles, or to the mouth of the Grand Canyon, why should not the government preserve the waters and their channel intact until such time as the channel intact until such time as the necessary appropriation can be obtained?

In these days, when the all-absorbing question of cheap transportation is occupying the minds of the people of California, it seems incumbent that we should preserve and make use of such a splendid opportunity as is presented by this natural water-way.

A READER.

(Troy Press:) It is a prevalent fallacy that the knowledge of a dead lan-guage is essential to the mastery of a guage is essential to the mastery of a live one, and, as a result, an exaggerated value is placed upon the study of Latin. As a common sense proposition we should say the to acquire ability and fertility in the use of the English language the study of English is to be most commended. What matters it that so many English words were derived from Latin, when their varied definitions and limitations are clearly shown in our standard dictionaries? The genealogy of a word is of small moment compared with its contemporaneous utility. It may be a corruption of Latin, it is true, and yet excellent English, approved by writers of the highest grade. Everything is evolutionary that does not deteriorate, and sublimer sentiments could never be clothed with more marvelous beauty than in the English tongue. Shakespeare, the most brilliant master of expression humanity has evolved, used English, exclusively. We have never had a linguist so profound in the depth or wide in the scepe of attainments as to be able to fashion words with the consummate skill of Shakespeare, who knew no language but the English. Yet in the face of this and other illustrious examples, educators are continually hisisting upon the study of foreign or dead languages as an essential to the proper comprehension of the mother tongue. live one, and, as a result, an exagger

How Grapes are Kept.

The New England Homestead says:
"There are hundreds of barrels of grapes sent yearly from Spain and they have to be kept for weeks and months have to be kept for weeks and months after picking. The fruit is cut from the vines with a sharp knife before it gets over ripe. It is spread on benches twelve to eighteen inches deep in a close room and left to sweat two or three days. All broken or discolored berries are then cut out with long, pointed scissors and the fruit is packed in barrels in dry corkdust. A layer of dust is put in the bottom, and then a layer of grapes, and so on until the barrel is full. It is well shaken during the process, and all spaces filled with dust. The barrels are kept in cool places after being received in New York.

"Native grapes may be kept in the same way. Care must be exercised not to let them get too ripe. Select well-formed bunches and only such varieties as have a tough skin and hang well to the stem. Those in which the bunches are not too compact are preferable to the stem. Those in which the bunches are not too compact are preferable to the stem. Those in which the bunches are not too compact are preferable to the stem. Those in which the bunches are not too rouble in sawdust—in fact almost anything that will keep the air away from the fruit. (Pittsburg Dispatch.) A great many smokers consider that little light specks on the wrapper of a cigar indicate a good article. Very few know how these specks get there. If on a hot day, when the sun has been beating down on the tobacco plants, a sudden thunder shower should come up and sprinkle the leaves with immense drops of rain so common in Cuba, and it should then suddenly clear up, the sun coming out strong again, then the drops of water act as lenses to concentrate the sun's rays, which burn the little specks on the tobacco. The tobacco must be ripe in order that the sun may give this effect. on account of the great selling quality of this sort of wrappers, spots are made on the cheaper brands by chemical means,

Fit Punishment for a Yandal.

(The Million:) The vandal, with his barbarity, and a city knife and pencil, who has an insane longing to associate his meaningless name with the great places of nature and history, has not so free a hand in the Yellowstone reservation as he enjoyed before the park was guarded by the soldiers of the United States army. It has been the custom of this creature to carve his initials on the front of the terraces and to write his name in the liquid left in the pools after a geyser had been playing. Years after writing in the water the name is legible and the pencil marks are fresh, so slowly do the geysers build up their deposits. The Upper Geyser basin is fifty miles from Fort Yellowstone, at the Mammoth Hot Springs. The telegraph is the enemy of offenders the world over, and if a tourist writtes his name in a pool he may be reasonably certain that the fact will be telegraphed to the post Fit Punishment for a Vandal may be reasonably certain that the fact will be telegraphed to the post through which he must pass when his trip is done, and there he is very likely to meet a captain of cavairy, who will hand him a rubber and send him fifty miles under guard to erase his name.

L JUVENTUS MUNDI Farewell, sweet promise of fair days,
And all deep joys true kinship brings;
We face the latest phase of things,
And too sad parting of old ways.

Farewell, but let me once again Remind you of the hours of yore; Though all is surely dead and o'er; Then, 'life of youth, we had no pain. Then love was glamor of glad eyes
And passioned pressing of sweet lips;
Wine of the gods upon thy lips,
Eternal pathos in thine eyes.

Then love was love for that fair form,
Thy soft white arm, thy budding breast,
And love embraced, there drawn to rest Triumphed enraptured in the storm.

II. CHAOS.

And then there came the birth of thought.

Crude guesses at a higher plane,

And love repressed—how oft in: vain!—

Played havoc with your plane and thought.

and then there came the birth of soul And yearning for the blest abode; Love bowed before thy ghostly god and wept for thy lost, sexless soul.

And what of all that thou hast known, All tolly of thy feeble ways, All burden of thy lonesome days; With love a wanderer from his own? What care I for your lisping speech, Your rights, your duty, plane and sphere) Your duty is the deed most near; Your rights are aye within your reach.

III. RECESSION. And see the worth of all you say Of your last fetich, "Higher Plane;" Man moveth onward through much His highest plane is mostly clay.

Your evolution and not love Is law of all the highest life? Ah! frailty is a hopeless strife, There a evolution too in love.

But this, aye this, you do not know:
The fiction that you call your heart,
With pain and bruise, and bleed smart,
Is all the love—love that you know.

And see the end of all fair dreams, The fall from life's exalted way, The soul ni its unblest decay. The death of dreams— poor woman's dreams.

IV. THE ETERNAL "NO." Yes, ever as the seasons go, You, child, will wed your brother clay, Wed in the old, old, savage way, And then, fair dreamer, you shall know.

Know that your clay is common clay Despite your dearest, sweetest nam and know that love's celestial flam Adieu, sweet lips and tender eyes;
Farewell to truth and Life and art; and seemed to think that they could acknowledge value received when sentence was pronounced.

A. W. Knawing had been found by Officer McDonald so drunk on Alameda street Sunday morning as to really be too full for utterance. He wanted to assist the Salvation Army in their service by preaching a sermon, but, as his remarks were ill-timed, he was arrested. Justice Austin assessed him $5. Hobert Wilson explained that he had formerly lived down along the sea-coast, but his physician had advised him to go further inland, so he came to this city. As to being drunk on Saturday night, he had only a faint recollection of the occurrence. If the court would give him a chance, however, he would leave town at once and proceed on toward the interior some more. The court remembered that he had given Wilson several of those same chances before, and promptly ordered that he be confined in the City Jali for a period of eight days.

F. F. Quinlan didn't see how he could have become so drunk as Officer Hawley said that he had been, for he only drank a little wine with his lunch, just two bottles of port, so he was told to go down to the prison and spend three days there, and see if he could not satisfactorily figure the matter out.

Old "Tobe" Wilson, the "king of tramps," found his way out from the crowd of "hobos" to answer with his usual glibness to the charge of solicting alms. "Tobe" explained to the court that he was on his way out of town, and he was thereupon released and told to hurry along toward a more appreciative community.

Several other beggars and vagrants wore disposed of, when court adjourned.

THE EAST SIDE. New and Substantial Improvements-General

Claude Floyd, formerly superintendent of the postoffice at Station A, has written his father, F. L. Floyd, under date of San Francisco, announcing his departure for South Africa. He left last Saturday by steamer for Portland, Or., and from there will proceed to New York, where he embarks for Cape Town. He goes to take advantage of Town. He goes to take advantage of the boom caused by the recent gold ex-citement in the African interior, and declares he will not return until he has made his pile. He promises to keep a lookout for openings in a business way, and hopes to be able to induce his parents to follow him in a year

A. C. Burton, a gentleman from the East, who recently purchased a part of the old Hooker place on North Griffin street, near Downey, avenue, has commenced the erection of a substantial residence, a two-story, frame structure, to contain eight rooms and modern conveniences. It will add not a little to the appearance of one of the most desirable residence streets on the East Side.

The police on Sunday arrested two boys for hunting and shooting along the river, inside the city limits. They were yesterday taken into court, where one of them confessed to having fired one or two shots, and was let off with a light fine. His companion, who was shown to have had no connection with the offense, other than being present at the time, was discharged.

It is an old saying that man makes the clothes, not the clothes the man, and pernaps it is true. Yet, how often do we judge a man, or rather his standing, by the cut of the clothes he has on. They may not be new, but if they are of a good cut, they bespeak the man of taste and breeding. Therefore, one should be very careful in buying clothes. Whether purse be long and fat, or short and you can still be well dressed. Especially is this the case in this city, where, by going to the right man, you can get clothes cut and made in the highest style of the art for very little more than what an ill-made, ill-fitting, ready-made suit would cost. ### MIDWINTER FAIR.

Meeting of the County Committee.

Plans for the Model Farm About Completed.

The Citrus Display to Be Strictly a County Affair.

The Idea Approved by the Fruit-growers Who Will Furnish all the Oranges That May Be Needed-

A meeting of the County Midwinter Fair Committee was held yesterday morning, much of especial interest be-ing discussed and accomplished. There morning, much of especial interest being discussed and accomplished. There were present, C. E. Bemis, Covina; A. Scott Chapman, Alhambra; John Burr, San Fernando; Seward Cole, Cahuenga; Charles H. Keyes, Pasadena; U. S. G. Todd, Monrovia; N. H. Hosmer, Sierra Madre; W. T. Clark, Pomona; H. L. Montgomery, Rivera; Walter Mellick, Lancaster; J. S. Slauson, T. D. Stimson, Kaspar Cohn, C. F. A. Last, city. Mr. Hosmer, chairman of special Committee on Model Farm, reported that they are getting along well. Mr. Behre has been consulted about a foundation plan, and estimates that it will cost something like $75. This will be 6x15 feet, of plaster of paris, coated with shellac to resemble the color of dirt. The committee's idea is to set it chiefly to orange trees, with a few lemons perpers blue gums and ornawill cost something like $75. This will be $x15 feet, of plaster of paris, coated with shellac to resemble the color of dirt. The committee's idea is to set it chefty to orange trees, with a few lemons, peppers, blue gums and ornamental trees. In order to observe correct proportions, the orchard trees will be five and one-half inches high, twenty-two in a row, and eight rows. A few, however, will be omitted to give space for buildings, leaving the total number 143. The cost of the orange trees, in full bearing (a paper crop.) will be 35 cents each. The buildings are estimated to cost $10. The entire thing, including a little flower garden, hydrants of brass about the size of straws, small manikins and mechanical appliances, with a patch of alfalfa in one corner, will be nearly $175. This does not include floor installation. It is not known yet whether the water works can be arranged automatically. The design is to show by basins and furrows how a typical Southern Callfornia home is kept luxuriant by irrigation. According to the scale adopted, the farm will represent about two acres. More space would increase the interest of it, but as it would also increase the expense, it was not thought wise to enlarge it.

Mr. Bemis thought it well to illustrate the ridging of the orchard plot by team work, and the making of the circular basins around the trees by a little team driving about the tree base. He would also like to see illustrated the manner of getting water to an elevation by carrying it around the grade.

Mr. Mellick moved that it be considered the sense of the meeting that the plan, as far as outlined, is favorable, and that the committee proceed. Carried.

Mr. Chapman reported on citrus fruit. People are everywhere asking if there is to be one general exhibit of citrus fruit, or if each locality is to be segregated and get due fame and justice. He also suggested that some one man be appointed to take charge of the fruit and put it upon the road. He here introduced a letter from Covina to the effect that if t

Mr. Todd moved that the citrus dis-play be made strictly a county display, and that all locality features be left entirely out.

Upon motion of Prof. Keyes, the foregoing resolution was referred to the Citrus Committee and Mr. Wiggins, with full power to act.

Mr. Wiggins was also authorized to select the best samples of fruit from time to time, according to his judgment, for the Horticultural building exhibit.

time to time, according to his judgment, for the Horticultural building exhibit.

It was stated that Duarte and Monrovia have 100 boxes of select fruit, their initial assessment, that they are ready to supply, and they will afterward keep their exhibit full.

The procuring of trees was discussed. San Bernardino has orange and lemon trees boxed, which were prepared for for the World's Fair, and not used. Some twenty or thirty of these can be procured, and they are all ready for transportation.

Mr. Mellick wished to know if yuccas would be desirable. They are singular growths, and always prove interesting features.

Various trees and woods were suggested, and Mr. Wiggins stated that it is already arranged for fifty decorative plants around the doorway. He wishes the offer of all such that it is possible to procure. He has also the matter of interior decoration of the building much at heart. He hopes to see it a bower of fruit; but this work, he considers, should be done by some one thoroughly posted in decorative art. Prof. Keyes moved that the committee recommend to the Southern California Midwinter Fair Commission the appointment of a decorative artist for decorating the Southern California building, such person to be paid prorata from the counties. The motion was carried unanimously.

The matter of space for exhibits by manufacturers, and the matter of concessions, were referred to Mr. Wiggins, with power to act.

A telegram was read from W. H. Murray, commissioner for California, asking if Los Angeles county will make a representative exhibit in the main building, and also that a county day be named.

The selection of the latter was left to a committee consisting of Messrs. Slauson, Silent and Mellick, with power to designate a day.

Prof. Keyes reported favorably on educational progress. He has been in communication with leading school of Slauson, Silent and Mellick, with power to designate a day.

Prof. Keyes reported favorably on educational progress. He has been in communication with leading school officials of the county, and all consider it very vital to make an exhibit which shall be of interest to the prospective homemaker in Southern California, and which shall truly represent our educational growth and facilities, and some of our peculiar and superior educational advantages. He believes a most creditable exhibit will be made.

The importance of a characteriste display of woman's work, in many intresting branches representative of Southern California, was particularly emphasized. The other buildings are to have their women's departments, where diversified industries are shown, and which will be among their most attractive features. San Bernardino is awake on this subject, and has telegraphed to know particulars.

The meeting adjourned until Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

CURRUS FRUIT-GROWERS.

CITRUS FRUIT-GROWERS.
The Citrus Fruit-growers' Committee eld a session in the afternoon. They pproved the plan of making a general shibly of citrus fruits, to be known as

Los Angeles county as a whole, to which each locality is to contribute. The identity of each locality will, however, be preserved as nearly as possible. If, after installing the main features, space permits, locality exhibits will be admissible.

The committee agreed upon having the fruit selected, collected and forwarded by the fruit-growers' exchanges within the county, provided they will agree to the proposition; with the understanding, however, that the producer, not a member of the exchange, shall have the privilege of forwarding his fruit, and have the same chance of its being exhibited, as those in the exchange.

The committee favored using the cit-his fruit, and have the same chance of its being exhibited, as those in the exchange.

The committee favored using the citrus fruits for decorative features within the Los Angeles county space, arranging it in the form of arches, portieres, etc., and making it a grand spectacle. The idea was also suggested of making a citrus exhibit the feature of the county exhibit, and of having the feature colosal as possible.

The plan of the triumphal arch as the central feature was approved. This arch is in the form of a Greek cross. The base of the structure will be of lemons, and the elevation covered with oranges, bordered with lemons and cypress. The coping will be covered with Tangerines. Above that will tower the elephant, covered with walnuts, with the heusing of lemons and the howdah of oranges. Around the arch at the corners there will be tropical plants and flowers. Within the archway, the front of which will have a portiere drapery, will be displayed fruits in glass. At the ends of the arch will be encased show windows, behind which honey, jellies, glace fruits, etc., will be shown.

The citrus men are anxious to furnish all the fruits that are needed.

The citrus men are anxious to furnish all the fruits that are needed.

It should be mentioned that the expense for making exhibitions in the State classified competitive exhibit in the Horticultural building, will probably amount to only about 10 cents a plate, merely covering the cost of installation.

and entertainers of the world are heard.

In a degree the same object has resulted in the organization of the "Broadway Club" in this city.

The plan of the club is to secure renowned talent for one evening in the month, for which an admission fee will be asked from all who are not members of the club. For the three remaining nights of the month (meetings will be held weekly) the best local talent in Southern California will be engaged, and on these evenings the public is invited free.

A membership ticket, which entitles the holder to the whole course, can be obtained for the mere nominal sum of $1 for men, and associate membership tickets of 50 cents for ladies. The initial entertainment of the club will be given on Thursday evening, December 21, at the First Presbyterian Church, corner Broadway and Second street, Prof. E. E. Barnard of Lick Observatory having been engaged to give an illustrated lecture on astronomy, which will include actual photographs of sun, moon, planets, stars, star-clusters, Milkey Way, meteors, etc., and which promises to be intensely interesting. The admission to this lecture will be 50 cents, but all those desiring to become members of the club may secure a membership ticket by calling upon or addressing Joseph Newkirk, at the Presbyterian Church, corner Second street and Broadway, any time before Thursday noon, December 21.

NO MEMBERSHIP TICKETS WILL BE ISSUED AT THE DOOR THURSDAY NIGHT.

The club announces for its attraction The club announces for its attraction in January the Berkeley Glee Club, and it will, no doubt, be pleasing news to a large portion of the public to learn that Henry Watterson, perhaps the most entertaining lecturer on the American platform today, will be here in April to deliver his now celebrated lecture on "Money and Morals."

SAN FRANCISCO, DEC.14.-The Mining Exhibit Committee of the Mid-winter Fair has set about in a determined spirit to make California's display far outshine that of Colorado, and if the miners will properly second their efforts, this State will not have reason to feel ashamed of her exhibit, as she did at Chicago. Still only about $5000 of the $25,000 desired for the exhibit has yet been raised, and many attractive features designed by the committee will of necessity be abandoned if a more

PATARRH :: : IN CHILDREA

For over two years my little girl's life was made miserable by a case of Catarrh. The discharge from the nose was large, constant and very offensive. Her eyes became inflamed, the lids swollen and very painful. After trying various emedies, I gave her S.S. The first bottle seemed to S.S. The first bottle seemed to sugaravate the disease, but the symptoms soon abated, and in a short time she was cured.

OFFICE OF THE TIMES,
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18, 1833.
The feature of the New York Stock Exchange, today, was the determined attack by the bears on New England, which sold down 3½c, with a net loss for the day of 2½c. A drive was also made against St. Paul, forcing a decline of 1½c.
The general market was heavy at the oenping, but the early decline was merely fractional, and, during the first half hour, prices were fairly well maintained. Then came the bears, hammering New England and St. Paul, and depressing the entire list, There were fractional recoveries, but, during the afternoon and until a few minutes before the close, the course of values was downward. The market closed a shade better, but at a decline of 4 to 5 per cent.

VENTURA COUNTY.

Annoyance Caused by a Libelous Publication General News Notes.

Ventura, like some of her likewise unfortunate sisters, has, within her boundaries, some disreputable cur, who poses as a reporter (?) sub-rosa, of course, for that disreputable sheet, the California World, and each week there is to be found a string of insulting insinuations, aimed at some of Ventura's most respectable young ladies and gentlemen, which could only emanate from the brain of one lost to all sense of decency and manhood.

The friends and relatives of the young people whose given names and initials of surnames were blazened forth to the world in the insulting paragraphs in the last issue of the publication, are thoroughly angered, and the chances are quite favorable for the reporter receiving a dose of tar and feathers if he is caught.

Spurlock & Capito, the Ventura news agents, positively refuse to keep the vile sheet on sale. insinuations, aimed at some of Ven-vile sheet on sale.

County School Superintendent Black apportioned the first installment of County School Superintendent Black apportioned the first installment of county school money to the various districts: Ventura receives $5527.19, of which sum, $2329.19 goes to the Union High School. Santa Paula, $1230, and $2806.30 to the High School. The Hueneme, Nordhoff, Avenue, Rio and Satecoy each receive $492. The remaining districts, numbering forty, receive $246 each. The library fund is included in the above amounts.

At the last session of the Board of Supervisors, $500 was ordered transfered from the general fund to the World's. Fair fund.

The City Treasurer's report shows a balance in the general fund, December 1, of $19; spinkling fund, $188.30; street fund, $155.60; library fund, $210.36.

John Mularky, a Santa Paula teamster, was taken to the insane asylum at San Bernardino Thursday.

Lyman Scott, father of Mrs. W. H. Barnes, died at the latter's home on Ventura avenue Wednesday evening. He as 86 years of age. The funeral took place from the family residence Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

J. A. Tobin has just completed a $600 improvement upon his Sixth street residence.

R. R. Tanner was in Judge Smith's Department One of the Superior Court on Monday with a motion to set aside the amended information against J. W. Heart, on the ground that I. A. Willis, committing magistrate, has no sufficient title to the office he exercises. The motion was taken under advisement.

Although not generally known, it is a fact, nevertheless, that for some months past the Jones interest, as represented in town lots, has been on the market for sale for improvement. Something like twenty-five lots have been sold, and many more will be as the season advances. It is the purpose of the owner and his representatives to make his holdings here contribute their full share toward the city's growth.

The window-opening burglar, although operating on raliroad offices only thus far, is not without his reward. After effecting an entrance to the Southern Pacific ticket office Saturday night he extracted just $34.25 from the safe. He got to the cash box without injuring the safe, but that receptacle he pried out of place. Had he taken more time he might have discovered another $75 which Agent Schenck had ready for remittance outside the cash drawer. No clew. The money was the only thing taken.

Officers of the Defunct Anaheim Bank Arrested.

Cashler James Charged With Embezzle ment and Perjury and George V. Horr With Perjury - Both Released on Bond.

There were three more arrests made Monday on indictments by the grand jury. Plez James, cashier, and George V. Horr, assistant cashier of the Bank V. Horr, assistant cashier of the Bank of Anaheim, and Fred Goldthwaite were arrested. Mr. James was arrested on two charges, one for embezzlement and one for perjury, while Mr. Horr's charge was for perjury, and young Goldthwaite's for burglary. James and Horr have given bail to appear in the Superior Court, when their presence is demanded. James's bond on the charge demanded. James's bond, on the charge of embezzlement, is $5000, J. H. Bullard and Theodore Rimpau being his sureties. On the charge of perjury, the bond is $2000, with E. P. Fowler and bond is $2000, with E. P. Fowler and Isaac Lyons as sureties. George V. Horr gave a bond of $2000, with S. S. Federman and N. Hart as sureties. Young Goldthwalte's bond has rot yet been returned. Goldthwalte is the young man who was arrested some weeks ago, charged with the theft of $140 from the person of a friend, whom he had succeeded in getting drunk, and was subsequently released by an Anahelm justice of the peace, upon a preliminary hearing.

Other indictments have probably been found, and consequently other arrests are looked for.

The semi-annual convention of the outhern district of the California The semi-annual convention of the southern district of the California branch of the Lyceum League of America closed Saturday evening with an interesting session in Spurgeon's Hall, followed by a banquet in the Jefferson Club's rooms in the Mosbaugh Block. The programme in Spurgeon's Hall was of a literary and musical order, and was greatly appreciated by the large audience present. The tables in the banquet hall were loaded with the substantials and luxuries of the season. Toasts were proposed and responded to by a number of Santa Ana's prominent citizens. The following officers for the organization were selected for the ensuing year: President, George P. Kelley of Santa Ana; vice-president, E. Rossiter, Pasadena; second vice-president, R. E. Bunker, Garden Grove; secretary, H. W. Hill; Santa Ana; treasurer, E. W. Baker, National City. The next convention will be held in Pasadena, June 16, 1894.

EATING BREAD AND WATER. EATING BREAD AND WATER.

There is a dilapidated specimen of humanity now languishing in the old wooden jail who, by his own choice, has started out to live on bread and water rather than to perform a little work each day and enjoy three good square meals between each sunrise and sunset. But this big, strong, red-faced and burly fellow has refused to work, and defles the county to make him do any work whatever. Monday morning he refused to ge out to the riverbed with the other prisoners, so Sheriff Lacy forthwith hustled him into the old wooden jail, and informed him that from now on until the expiration of his sentence, he would be fed on bread and water twice a day. With curses upon his lips he went back into his cell muttering that Santa Ana was no friend to the "hobo" fraternity. As rapidly as others refuse to work they will be sent at once to the old wooden jail, where they will be fed on bread and water twice a day. The county is determined to stop the imposition that is being heaped upon its people by these worthless fellows, many of whom are criminals of the worst order who are traveling about from place to place under the guise of "the unemployed."

Veterinary Surgeon Probably Fatally Burned.
Outrages by Tramps.
Dr. Cragan, a veterinary surgeon of this city, was so severely burned early Monday morning that it is doubtful if he will recover, and if he does he will be a cripple. He and three other "boys," each about 50 years of age, be a cripple. He and three other "boys," each about 50 years of age, were having a high old time in the doctor's office, on Main street, between Second and Third. All had gone home except the doctor, who was left asleep on his office floor. About 4 o'clock Monday morning there was an alarm of fire, and when the department reached the scene, it was found that a coal-oil stove had been kicked over, and the doctor's clothes were in a blaze. His right leg was terribly burned, and the flesh burned from his left hand. The burns are very deep, and in some places all the flesh is burned from the bones. The doctor has been drinking heavily lately, and only a few days ago, while he was "improperly enthused," a tramp entered his sleepingroom and took about $150 worth of clothing, bed quiltis, etc.

When Dr. Cragan is sober he is a pleasant and agreeable gentleman, and a fine "hoss" doctor; but, like many others, he did not know when he had enough. The office was not damaged to any extent.

MAKING THEIR PRESENCE FELT. MAKING THEIR PRESENCE FELT.

A few days ago mention was made in The Times of the fact that Pomona was overrun with "unemployed" or "hobos," which terms seem about synonymous. The hobos are now beginning to make their presence known in no uncertain manner. Within the past two weeks about twenty-five overcoats, shawls and buggy-robes have been taken from vehicles, and none of them have been recoverd, as the tramps leave on the freight trains the same night of the robbery. But this is not all. "Hold-ups" are getting entirely too frequent. On Saturday night William Clearey was walking along Ellen street in front of the residence of W. T. Clark, when an unknown man sprang out and grabbed him by the throat. Clearey attempted to throw the man off, and received three ugly cuts on his hand. The robber then proceeded to go through Clearey's pockets, but only got $1 in cash. Clearey had only a moment before transferred his money, except the dollar, from his pants pocket to a pocket in his vest, and that was what saved him. Before the robber got through all the pockets, he became none of them have been recovered, as bert and Cleary looked for the man, but could not find him.

On the same night A. I. Stewart was walking down Ellen street, near Fourth street, when he was accosted by a hobo, who demanded some money. Stewart was "laying for just such cattle, and immediately pulled his gun, and putting it against the hobo's stomacm, modestly remarked that he would blow the life out of that hobo, and advised the gentleman to come, and belocked up. The hobo begin to cry, and Stewart let him go. It is believed he was the same man who tackled Clearey an hour or two later.

It is time the citizens did something about these men. The officers would arrest more of them, but they have had to put up money to take the hobos to Los Angeles, and then have their claims disallowed. It is to be hoped the officers will arrest every such characten and take them to the lock-up. The people have suffered too much already.

Robert McCourt is again at the Western Union telegraph key in this place.

Those who employ laborers in and around Pomona would do well not to let their hearts overflow with sympathy for the visiting "unemployed." There are always worthy men in this place, men who reside here, that should be given the preference. Some of them complain that the vagrants are generally given the preference.

A letter from Rew. Father Fisher, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church in this place, says that he was walking down the steps from a hotel in Dublin. Ireland, when he slipped and fell, breaking his leg. He will be unable to come home for some time. Father Fisher's friends claim, in regard to the charges made against him in this place, that it is mostly the Mexican membership that is making the complaint, and that the charges are groundless.

This is an "off" year for olives, last year being the good year for that fruit in Southern California, but the profit there is in olives is satisfactory to the growers. J. E. Packard reports that his fifteen-acre olive orchard will yield a net profit of at least $100 an acre this season, and, perhaps, $125 an acre. Several acres bear a crop that is selling at the rate of $150 an acre. The Moore olive orchard has 172 Mission clive trees, 7 years old, that produced this year a crop that sold for $200 on the trees. Phere are other reports of profit per acre in olives this season, varying from $90 to $130 per acre. The dealers in pickled olives say they are selling their products rapidly at the rate of $1 per gallon, and will probably be sold out by January 1, while the producers of olive oil say they are selling their products rapidly at the rate of $1 per gallon, and will probably be sold out by January 1, while the producers of olive oil say they are selling their products rapidly at the rate of $1 per gallon, and will probably be sold on the yanuary 1, while the producers of olive oil say they are selling their friends and patrons.

REDLANDS.

The High School boys want the school grounds laid out so they can have a place for athletic sports, and the citizens—at least, many of them—want suitable grounds prepared for them. There is plenty of room about the building for lawns, flowers and play grounds, and they should be provided. In this locality, where trees, shrubs and flowers grow so luxuriantly and frost seldom touches the tenderest plants, it seems as though man might do his part to make every spot about the city one of beauty. Of course, it will require labor or money, or both, to put the school-grounds in proper shape, and no doubt there are citizens prepared to assist in each of these directions. Dr. Hill and Capt. J. Wallace Diss have volunteered to take charge of contributions of money, trees and plants, and no doubt some one else may be found to direct the labor. It is understood that there are no funds available for the improvement of these grounds from the city treasury; but, by, each one who can afford it contributing something, they might easily be made attractive.

RIVERSIDE COUNTY.

Prompt Payment of Taxes-Some Significant

Figures.
The first installment of the semi-an nual collection of taxes in the nev county of Riverside became delinquent after November 22 last. It was ex-pected that a large per cent. of the taxes would become delinquent, as the taxes for the first year must be col-lected to cover eighteen months' ex-penses, and the failure to realize any profit upon the orange crop for two years past, the general depression in business this fall, and especially the failure of the Riverside Banking Company, through which a large part of the money of the county, particularly of the orange-growers of this valley, was locked up, it was thought would produce such a scarcity of money that taxes would go unpaid. But the promptness with which the taxes have been paid, noticeably in the cities and towns, has been an agreeable surprise to the new county. The per cent. of the first half paid and unpaid, and the per cent. of the second half paid in the principal places are as follows:

THEIR METHODS VENTILATED.

The suit of Mrs. Mary E. Jarvis against the Orange-growers' Packing Company, to recover a large sum of money, claimed to be due on oranges handled for plaintiff by defendant last year, has served to bring out pretty clearly the methods followed by the commission men, and show how the orange-growers have been systematically robbed by the dealers. Judge Noyes has taken the case under advisement, and will render his decision this week. It seems that it is a common practice to furnish statements of prices without any truth in them whatever, in order to secure consignments of fruit.

Hewes's Shoes! 65 Cents on the Dollar.

Hewes was well known for keeping only the finest grades of Ladies' and Children's Footwear.

Hewes had the best trade of this town, as everybody

Hewes sold us his stock of fine Shoes at 65 cents on Hewes retired from business because he had enough of the world's goods and was willing to rest up and enjoy life as it should be.

We bought Hewes's stock and are now selling

THIS FINE LINE AT

ON THE DOLLAR.

Our object in doing this may be questioned, but we let you into our secret. We are after the fine trade of this town. We knew that by buying this stock we would in the instant gather in all of Hewes's customers, and also others who were well acquainted with his wares, but on account of the uppish price did not trade with him. This is now overcome by reason of our being in possession and placing prices on Hewes's wares far below what you would have to pay for inferior footwear in other stores.

We can now say we sell $5 shoes at $3.25, $6 shoes at $3.90, $7 shoes at $4.50.

A Word to the Gentlemen:

Our Gentlemen's Department for Fine Shoes is separated from the Ladies' so that the most modest can now be fitted in a separate department. In this line we can only say that, like the Ladies' Shoes, we have the finest makes of gentlemen's footwear at the same ratio on Hewes's price of 65 cents on the dollar. We would desire to see all of Hewes's customers come to us, and whereby we can save them $2 or $3 on a pair of shoes and fit them with the same lines that they have probably been buying for years at

In conclusion. we wish to extend our thanks to the purchasing public,

For never before in the history of this business have we enjoyed such trade in the shoe line as we have during this sale. We also desire to have it understood that we want all shoes fitted to the feet so that only perfect and well-fitting shoes will leave our establishment; that each pair will become an advertisement for this house, as we are aiming to continue with each patron and have their constant custom. Customers desiring to exchange shoes will please remember that during this sale we would ask them to do all exchanging between the hours of 8 and 10, more for the reason that better attention can be given them in the early morning
